Hi Facebook team,

Thank you for the response.

I see the video now has the fact-checking label, it didn't have it before, so that is also a good solution.

Kind regards,

Hi,

Thanks for your report. Unfortunately, due to COVID-19, we are currently experiencing delays in responding to most reports. We will continue to prioritize reports related to risk of imminent violence or physical harm, election, or to COVID-19, and are doing our utmost to handle these as usual.

If someone is in immediate danger, call local emergency services. Don't wait.

If you'd like more information on our policies related to imminent violence or physical harm, please refer to our Community Standards at <https://www.facebook.com/communitystandards/>. For more on our response to COVID-19, please find the latest updates here: <https://about.fb.com/news/2020/03/coronavirus/>.

We appreciate your patience. Thank you.

Subject: NL municipality elections question

Dear content moderation team,

Next week on the 24th in the Netherlands there are 'herindelingsverkiezingen', elections for a couple of municipalities that have fused into one new municipality.

We received a message from one of these municipalities, that when both the municipality and citizens want to share the link the municipality has posted to a website that helps determine which political party matches your preference most (an objective voting advice tool), their shared post is immediately deleted/not visible to others.

This specific example was about this link: <https://dijkenwaard.kieskompas.nl> , it was supposedly also this FB message that people couldn't share which has the link in it: https://fb.watch/9ma_TNNXVi/

See the picture attached I received from the municipality employee. It said "nobody else can see your message".

Apparently, currently the message is no longer automatically deleted. But I wanted to flag this and ask if you know why this message was being deleted?

Kind regards,

Subject: Local political party account blocked

Dear Meta team,

We received a notification from a local politician in the municipality Beek that his personal Instagram page (Persoonsgegevens) and the Instagram page of the local political party (@cda.beek) are blocked.

According to the political party, no reason for this block was given. Hence the party has the suspicion that a group of people purposely made false reports to get these accounts deactivated.

Could you maybe look into this block? The local elections are next week, and the party is using these accounts also for campaigning purposes.

We have also given them the link to <http://fb.com/gpa/help> so they might also contact you through other means.

Hey Persoonsgegevens,

Hope you're well this morning. Yes, the account had been challenged to verify their phone number and when they failed, the system locked the account to secure it. They managed to verify the phone number and the account was already unlocked when I escalated the issue.

Hope this helps.

Hallo collega's,

Ons Twitteraccount blijkt geblokkeerd te zijn. Twitter geeft niet specifiek aan waarom dit is, maar wij hebben sterk het vermoeden dat dit met onze Twitterberichten over de verkiezingen te maken heeft. Aangezien we de laatste tijd ook weinig anders geplaatst hebben. De berichten zouden dan in strijd zijn met de regels. Hebben jullie hier meer geluiden van gehoord?

Met vriendelijke groet,

Onderwerp: Dutch elections calls to vote for two parties

Urgentie: Hoog

Hi Twitter team,

I just made a report for messages we are seeing in NL on multiple social media platforms (incl. Twitter).
See: Case# 0199068291: partner_election [ref:00DA0000000K0A8.5004w0000279Jas:ref]

People are posting that you can vote for two parties.

Mostly this is done as a joke.

This is not illegal, but can actually cause people's votes to not be valid, if they follow this 'advice'.

There is also a fact-check available: <https://dpa-factchecking.com/netherlands/210316-99-845281/>

And please see this information from the Dutch Electoral Council about when a vote is not valid:

<https://www.kiesraad.nl/verkiezingen/adviezen-en-publicaties/publicaties/2016/03/staatscourant-e.d/voorbeelden-blanco-geldige-en-ongeldige-stemmen>

Art. N7 of our electoral law is the one that specifies that it has to be clear for which candidate you vote: wetten.nl
- Regeling - Kieswet - BWBR0004627 \(overheid.nl\)

Hopefully you are able to check this and refer to the fact-check or something like this.
