EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. CONTEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

• Reasons for and objectives of the proposal

Insurance policies form an integral part of the daily life of European citizens. For many social and economic activities, holding an insurance policy is necessary to protect against potential risks. An insurance policy can also be a savings product, which will determine the long-term welfare of the holders while insurers channel these savings via financial markets into the real economy. The disorderly failure of insurers can therefore have a significant impact on policy holders, beneficiaries, injured parties or affected businesses, especially where critical insurance services cannot be substituted in a reasonable amount of time and at a reasonable cost. The management of a near-failure or the failure of certain insurers, particularly large cross-border groups, or the simultaneous failure of multiple insurers can also lead to or amplify financial instability.

The Solvency II Directive reduced the likelihood of failures and improved the resilience of the EU insurance industry, and will be reinforced by the review adopted together with this proposal[1]. Nevertheless, despite a sound and robust prudential framework, situations of financial distress cannot be completely excluded.

Yet, there are currently no harmonised procedures at European level for resolving insurers. This results in considerable substantive and procedural differences between the laws, regulations and administrative provisions that govern the failure of insurers in the Member States. In addition, corporate insolvency procedures may not be appropriate for insurance, as they may not always ensure an adequate continuation of critical functions. A regime is therefore needed to provide authorities with a credible set of resolution tools to intervene sufficiently early and quickly if insurers are failing or likely to fail to ensure a better outcome for policy holders, while minimising the impact on the economy, the financial system and any recourse to taxpayers' money.

At international level, in October 2014 the Financial Stability Board (FSB) developed Key Attributes (KA) on effective resolution regimes for the insurance sector targeting any insurer that could be systemically significant or critical if it fails. The FSB released complementary guidance on developing effective resolution strategies and plans in June 2016 and in its KA Assessment Methodology in August 2020. In parallel, in November 2019 the International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) adopted Insurance Core Principles for all insurance and reinsurance undertakings as well as a Common Framework for Internationally Active Insurance Groups (IAIG) detailing standards for pre-emptive recovery planning for IAIG and powers that authorities are expected to have available to manage an orderly exit from the market. Resolution planning for individual insurance groups is expected as necessary.

This proposal reflects these developments and implements these international standards into European legislation. It is based on the preparatory work developed by EIOPA, in particular its July 2017 Opinion[2], and on EIOPA's technical advice on the review of the Solvency II

Directive[3]. It also follows reports prepared by the ESRB in 2017 and 2018[4] which argue in favour of a harmonised recovery and resolution framework in insurance.

- Consistency with existing policy provisions in the policy area

This proposal has been developed in full consistency with the Solvency II framework, particularly, its intervention ladder for undertakings in the event of deteriorating financial conditions and the recovery measures already available for breaches of capital requirements. While it adds certain elements of crisis preparedness, the new preventive powers are consistent with the intervention ladder and the supervisory powers already provided for in the Solvency II framework; they do not lead to a new pre-defined intervention trigger other than the level of the Solvency Capital Requirement. The proposal is also consistent with the corresponding policies in the field of recovery and resolution for credit institutions and investment firms[5] and central counterparties[6].

- Consistency with other Union policies

By stabilising the critical functions of distressed insurers, this proposal helps to ensure a better protection of savers and investors, maintain insurers' essential functions for the real economy and reinforce financial stability. It supports the essential conditions for facilitating efficient and sustainable flows of capital to where they are needed.

Overall, this proposal helps to reinforce the role of insurers as long-term investors and actors in the economic recovery following the COVID-19 crisis, in line with the political objectives of the Capital Markets Union and the European Green Deal.

2. LEGAL BASIS, SUBSIDIARITY AND PROPORTIONALITY

- Legal basis

The legal basis for the proposal is Article 114 of the TFEU. This allows the adoption of measures for the approximation of national provisions which have as their object the establishment and functioning of the internal market.

The proposal harmonises national laws on recovery and resolution of insurers, or introduces such a framework if there is none yet, to the extent necessary to ensure that Member States have the same tools and procedures to address failures. By establishing minimum harmonised requirements in the internal market, the proposal would establish a level playing field across the Member States. The harmonised framework would also safeguard the interests of policy holders and preserve the real economy. It would contribute to financial stability and trust in the internal market for insurance and reinsurance by ensuring a minimum capacity for resolution of insurers in all Member States and by facilitating cooperation between national authorities when dealing with the failure of cross-border groups. Therefore, the proposal has as its object the establishment and functioning of the internal market and Article 114 of the TFEU is the appropriate legal base.

6. Regulation (EU) 2021/23 of 16 December 2020 on a framework for the recovery and resolution of central counterparties

- Subsidiarity (for non-exclusive competence)

Currently, insurance recovery and resolution systems are national and only in place in a handful of Member States. Many national legal systems therefore do not confer the powers necessary for authorities to deal adequately with failing insurers. These divergent national legislations are also insufficient in cases of cross-border failure, particularly for cross-border groups where uncoordinated actions could quickly lead to suboptimal outcomes. Establishing adequate resolution arrangements at Union level requires significant harmonisation of national practices and procedures, which justifies the Union proposing the necessary legislation.

The objective of this proposal, namely the harmonisation of the rules and processes for the recovery and resolution of insurers, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States; instead, due to the effects of a failure of any undertaking in the Union, it can be better achieved at Union level. Therefore, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union.

- Proportionality

This proposal implements international standards and follows the advice of EIOPA. To ensure the suitability and effectiveness of the recovery and resolution framework, and to limit excessive administrative burdens and costs on insurers and authorities, the proposal contains proportionate requirements that take into consideration the nature, scale and complexity of the organisation, activities and services of an insurer. This applies to the scope of undertakings that would be subject to pre-emptive recovery planning and resolution planning; authorities can also allow insurers to be subject to a simplified set of obligations when developing and maintaining their plans. National insolvency procedures would remain a possible exit from the market for a failed insurer and supervisory intervention would remain judgement-based.

The provisions of the proposal are, therefore, proportionate to what is necessary to achieve its objectives.

- Choice of the instrument

Prudential supervision is based on the Solvency II Directive, and resolution is closely linked to non harmonised areas of national law, such as insolvency and property law. Therefore, a directive is the appropriate legal instrument since transposition is necessary to ensure the framework is implemented in a way that achieves the intended effect, within the specificities of relevant national law.

3. RESULTS OF EX-POST EVALUATIONS, STAKEHOLDER CONSULTATIONS AND IMPACT ASSESSMENTS

- Ex-post evaluations/fitness checks of existing legislation

This proposal shares its Impact Assessment (IA) with the proposal on the review of the Solvency II framework[7]. Annex 10 of the IA evaluates the current Solvency II framework and concludes that it has been broadly effective in achieving progress towards its overarching objectives of facilitating the development of the single market in insurance services while adequately protecting policy holders. However, since its entry into application in 2016, the Solvency II prudential framework has been implemented in a variety of ways by the national supervisory authorities (NSAs). This has been the case, for instance, for the intervention ladder which aims to restore the financial situation of insurers after a deterioration has been observed, or, more broadly, for measures related to recovery and resolution. In addition, in light of the growing cross-border activities and the new challenges posed by the prevailing economic and financial conditions, the Solvency II framework has not yet provided a regime that could ensure the coordinated resolution of insurers.

[7] Add reference to impact assessment

A majority of Member States do not have an effective recovery and resolution framework in place, and when they do, there are substantial differences between them[8]. These differences include the powers and tools available to authorities, the conditions under which these powers can be exercised and the objectives pursued when addressing the failure of insurers. In addition, as evidenced by the few cases of failure and near-failure recorded by EIOPA, the lack of sufficient preparedness of both insurers and public authorities, the lack of adequate tools and powers or the lack of cross-border coordination may have impeded a prompt and successful recovery or resolution of failing insurers in the EU. Consequently, the level of protection for policy holders and beneficiaries may have been suboptimal.

- Stakeholder consultations

In July 2017, EIOPA published an Opinion on the harmonisation of recovery and resolution frameworks for insurers across the Member States; EIOPA published a second Opinion in December 2020 following the Commission's "Call for Advice" of February 2019. In both cases, EIOPA conducted a public consultation. In addition, the Commission organised a conference in January 2020, including one session focused on recovery and resolution.

On 19 February 2020, the Commission consulted Member States through the Expert Group on Banking, Payments and Insurance. Member States were invited to comment on the Commission's consultation strategy and on EIOPA's impact assessment of its proposals. A specific exchange of views took place on a possible approach to recovery and resolution, notably through a targeted survey.

In July 2020, an Inception Impact Assessment (IIA) provided a detailed analysis of different policy options; feedback from stakeholders on the IIA was collected until August 2020. From July to October 2020, a public consultation on the review of the Solvency II framework gathered 73 responses from a variety of stakeholders, mostly from the European Economic Area. A "summary report" on the feedback to this consultation was published on 1 February 2021[9].

These consultations showed that while public authorities and civil society broadly supported better alignment of recovery and resolution elements, the insurance industry found such a harmonisation largely unnecessary and pointed to the likely high compliance costs. Some participants stressed the need to have a proportionate application of the rules. All stakeholders, however, stressed the need for better coordination and information exchange between supervisors in a cross-border context.

On 10 November 2020, the Commission consulted Member States through the Expert Group on Banking, Payments and Insurance on additional elements related to insurance recovery and resolution. Overall, Member State experts agreed with the policy orientations suggested in EIOPA's 2020 Opinion.

- Collection and use of expertise

To support its work on the review of the Solvency II framework, the Commission sent a comprehensive "Call for Advice" to the EIOPA, including on recovery and resolution. The final report from EIOPA was published on 17 December 2020.

In addition to consulting stakeholders, the Commission participated in the discussions and exchange of views informing the work of EIOPA, the IAIS and the FSB on the recovery and resolution of insurers. In this regard, the legislative proposal is fully in line with the latest FSB and IAIS policy orientations.

- Impact assessment

The IA for this proposal was developed as part of the broader Solvency II review and received a positive opinion from the Regulatory Scrutiny Board (RSB) on 23 April 2021. Costs and benefits associated with this proposal were thoroughly assessed and consulted upon on two occasions by EIOPA[10]; the main insights from EIOPA's analysis are reflected in the IA and summarised below.

The RSB made a number of recommendations for improvements, which led to the IA being further refined. In particular, the assessment of options and the overall costs and benefits of the Solvency II review, together with the recovery and resolution proposal were further substantiated.

The IA found that the implementation of a pre-emptive recovery and resolution framework would effectively address the observed lack of preparedness, possibly delayed interventions, the incomplete toolbox and uncoordinated management of cross-border cases of (near-) failure.

However, the IA concluded that, in line with international guidance and standards, it is necessary to introduce specific conditions for entry into resolution to address situations where an insurer would have a systemic impact if it fails. In particular, the policy options developed in the proposal would provide a credible framework to address the distress of insurers whose failure could negatively affect policy holders. A harmonised set of powers to prevent and address failures with consistent design, implementation and enforcement features would foster cross-border cooperation and coordination during crises and help to avoid any unnecessary economic costs stemming from uncoordinated decision-making between different public authorities and courts. It would also contribute to the level playing-field and avoid regulatory arbitrage.

In terms of costs, the IA demonstrated that they would stem mostly from the planning and resolvability assessment requirements. EIOPA's impact assessment provides an overview of the range of costs estimated by the NSAs for drafting and maintaining resolution plans and resolvability assessments, and for the supervision of pre-emptive recovery plans. Insurers would face costs from drafting pre-emptive recovery plans, from making information available for resolution planning or from possible changes to address impediments to resolvability. No assessment of these costs was available for the IA; however, as pre-emptive recovery plans would be integrated in the ongoing risk management of insurers, ORSA reports and contingency planning could serve as a source of input.

[10] See sections 11.6 and 12 in EIOPA's Impact Assessment and section 12 in the Background Document. EIOPA's Opinion on the review of Solvency II was preceded by an Opinion on the harmonisation of recovery and resolution frameworks for (re)insurers across the Member States (5 July 2017) and a Discussion Paper on Resolution Funding and National Insurance Guarantee Schemes (EIOPA, July 2018).

The IA also confirmed EIOPA's assessment that it would not be proportionate to require the financing of a resolution fund by the insurance industry or the building-up of liabilities by individual insurers that could be bailed-in to absorb losses and recapitalise failing insurers. The IA assessed that these measures would inflate the balance sheet of insurers to create a loss-absorbing capacity in proportion to their technical provisions; this would entail higher costs for the industry and impose additional servicing risks on the companies that would not be justified by materially increased benefits[11].

- Regulatory fitness and simplification

As explained under section 2, no additional intervention ladder is created in Solvency II and the new planning requirements are subject to adequate proportionality. The introduction of these proportionality elements should help to reduce regulatory and administrative burdens associated with implementing the proposal and to achieve an appropriate balance with its expected benefits.

By fostering awareness and preparedness, the proposal contributes to better-informed and timely remedial actions when needed by insurers. It would also enhance the level playing-field in the measures taken by authorities to restore their financial conditions or resolve them, and thereby contribute to fairer competitive conditions.

- Fundamental rights

This proposal complies with fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in particular by the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union (the Charter), notably the rights to property, the freedom to conduct a business, the right to an effective remedy and to a fair trial and the right of defence, and has to be applied in accordance with those rights and principles.

Any interference with rights of shareholders and creditors which results from resolution action should be compatible with the Charter. In particular, where creditors within the same class are treated differently under resolution action, such distinctions should be justified in the public interest and proportionate to the risks being addressed. Affected creditors, including policy holders, should not incur greater losses than those which they would have incurred if the insurer had been wound up under normal insolvency proceedings at the time that the resolution decision is taken.

4. BUDGETARY IMPLICATIONS

The proposal has no implications for the Union budget.

[11] EIOPA considered and consulted upon these options in the Discussion Paper on Resolution Funding and National Insurance Guarantee Schemes (EIOPA 30 July 2018).

The proposal would require EIOPA to: (i) develop ten technical standards and six guidelines; (ii) establish one annual report on the use of simplified obligations; (iii) maintain a database on administrative sanctions reported by national authorities; and (iv) take part in resolution colleges, make decisions in case of disagreement between supervisory and resolution authorities and exercise binding mediation. The newly established resolution committee would also prepare the tasks for EIOPA in the areas covered by the proposal. In this context, relevant competent authorities shall be invited to participate, as members, in to these developments, thereby maximising use of existing resources.

The delivery of the technical standards is due 18 months after the entry into force of the Directive. This deadline should provide sufficient time for EIOPA to develop them considering its current resources. The only recurrent deliverable relates to the report on the use of simplified obligations.

The workload associated with creating and maintaining the database on sanctions will likely depend on the flow of events reported by national authorities. Occurrences should be limited and would be spread over time, allowing EIOPA to manage its existing resources as necessary.

Considering past and current work on crisis management at EIOPA, it is considered that the proposed tasks for EIOPA will not require the establishment of additional positions and can be carried out with current resources.

5. OTHER ELEMENTS

• Implementation plans and monitoring, evaluation and reporting arrangements

The proposal requires Member States to transpose the recovery and resolution rules in their national laws within 18 months from the entry into force of this proposal. As mentioned in section 5, national authorities should report to EIOPA on the application of simplified obligations on an annual basis, which EIOPA should in turn disclose.

• Detailed explanation of the specific provisions of the proposal

Title I – Scope, definitions and authorities

Subject matter and scope of application (Article 1)

This proposal addresses crisis management (preventive powers, pre-emptive recovery planning and resolution) in relation to all insurance and reinsurance undertakings established in the EU that are subject to the Solvency II framework.

In addition, as the failure of an entity affiliated to a group can impact the solvency and the operations of the whole group, pre-emptive recovery and resolution planning needs to identify and encompass the all material entities of groups of which an insurer may form part and authorities should possess effective means of action with respect to those entities to impose remedial actions that takes into account the financial soundness of the group, address impediments to resolvability in a group context and produce a consistent resolution scheme for the group as a whole, in particular in a cross-border context.

Set-up of resolution authorities (Article 3)

This proposal requires Member States to set up insurance resolution authorities, equipped with a minimum harmonised set of powers to undertake all the relevant preparatory and resolution actions. The proposal does not specify the particular authority that should be appointed and can therefore be for example national central banks, competent ministries, public administrative authorities or other authorities entrusted with public administrative powers. In case the powers are assigned to an existing authority, adequate structural arrangements should be in place to avoid conflicts of interest between supervisory and resolution functions and operational independence, in particular with regard to supervisory authorities.

Title II – Preparation

Simplified obligations (Article 4)

In order to comply with the principle of proportionality and to avoid excessive administrative burden, authorities should, where appropriate, apply different or reduced pre-emptive recovery and resolution planning and information requirements on an undertaking-specific basis, and at a lower frequency of updates, taking into account a number of factors related to the undertaking. On an annual basis, authorities should report to EIOPA on the application of simplified obligations.

Pre-emptive recovery planning (Articles 5 to 8)

Groups should draw up and submit to the group supervisor group pre-emptive recovery plans. Also insurers, which are not part of a group subject to such planning requirements are required to prepare and regularly update pre-emptive recovery plans that set out actions to be taken by those undertakings for the restoration of their financial position where this has significantly deteriorated. Supervisors should identify the insurers that are obliged to draw up pre-emptive recovery plans based on a number of factors. Overall, at least 80% of a Member States' market should be subject to such requirements and low risk undertaking would be excluded on an individual basis.

These plans will improve the insurer's understanding of its vulnerabilities and its realistic options in stress scenarios should be an integral part of an undertaking's system of governance and existing tools may serve as input when preparing pre-emptive recovery plans.

Pre-emptive recovery plans are to be assessed by the supervisory authorities to check whether the plans are comprehensive and could feasibly restore an undertaking's viability in a timely manner.

Resolution planning and resolvability assessments (Articles 9 to 16)

Resolution authorities are required to prepare resolution plans setting out the resolution actions which the authority envisages in the event the conditions for resolution are met. Overall, 70% of undertakings per Member State should be subject to resolution planning and low risk undertaking would be excluded on an individual basis. The relevant insurers should be identified based on a number of proportionality criteria, including the expected impact of their failure.

Neither pre-emptive recovery nor resolution plans should rely on any extraordinary public financial assistance or expose taxpayers to the risk of loss.

As part of resolution planning, resolution authorities should also assess the overall resolvability of the insurer and address any impediments thereto. The authorities' discretion should be limited to what is necessary in order to simplify the structure and operations of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking solely to improve its resolvability.

Joint decisions (Article 17)

Group supervisors, supervisory authorities, group resolution authorities and resolution authorities, as applicable, should endeavour to reach joint decisions, following the procedure set out in this Article.

Title III – Resolution

Resolution conditions (Article 19)

The proposal establishes common parameter for triggering the application of resolution tools. An insurance or reinsurance undertaking should be placed in resolution when it is failing or likely to fail and there is no prospect that private sector alternatives or supervisory measures can avert failure.

At the same time, it is necessary to ensure that intrusive measures are triggered only when interference with the rights of stakeholders is justified and resolution action would be in the public interest.

Resolution tools and powers (Articles 26 to 52)

When the conditions for resolution are satisfied, resolution authorities will have the power to apply the following resolution tools:

(a) write-down or conversion of capital instruments, debt instruments and other eligible liabilities in particular to facilitate the exercise of other resolution tools such as the solvent run-off or the transfer tools. A specific hierarchy is created that complements and were necessary supersedes the one established in each national insolvency law. In principle, shareholders claims should be exhausted before those of subordinated creditors. It is only when those claims are exhausted that the resolution authorities can impose losses on more senior claims. In certain circumstances, conversion will take place to dilute seriously the remaining shareholders' claims;

(b) solvent run-off: the authorisation of an undertaking under resolution to conclude new insurance or reinsurance contracts is withdrawn in order to limit its activity to the exclusive administration of its existing portfolio, thereby maximising the coverage of insurance claims by existing assets;

(c) sale of business: all or part of an undertaking's business can be sold on commercial terms, without complying with procedural requirements that would otherwise apply.

(d) bridge undertaking: all or part of an undertaking's business can be transferred to a publicly controlled entity. The bridge undertaking must be authorised in accordance with the Solvency II Directive. Its operations are temporary in nature, the aim being to sell the business to a private purchaser when market conditions are appropriate.

(e) asset and liability separation: impaired or problem assets and/or liabilities can be transferred to a management vehicle to allow them to be managed and worked out over time. In order to minimise competitive distortions and risks of moral hazard, this tool should only be used in conjunction with another resolution tool.

Where available, insurance guarantee schemes could contribute to funding the resolution process by absorbing losses to the extent of the net losses that those schemes would have had to suffer after protecting policy holders in normal insolvency proceedings. In those cases, the application of the write-down or conversion tool would ensure that eligible policy holders are protected up to at least the coverage level which is the main reason why such insurance guarantee schemes have been established under national law.

In order to apply those tools, resolution authorities will have powers to take control of an institution that has failed or is about to fail, take over the role of shareholders and managers, transfer assets and liabilities and enforce contracts. Where applicable, resolution actions will need to be consistent with the Union State aid framework. National authorities will be able to provide for, in addition to the minimum harmonised toolkit, specific national tools and powers if they are compatible with the principles and objectives of the Union resolution framework. In particular, national authorities may consider the use of the write-down or conversion tool to recapitalise a failing insurer as long as insurance claims are not affected and that appropriate reorganisation and restructuring measures are taken.

Ancillary provisions concerning resolution, including valuation, safeguards, procedural obligations and rights of appeal and exclusion of other actions (Articles 23 to 25 and 53 to 66)

In order to ensure that resolution decisions are taken in accordance with key principles regarding property rights and compliance with relevant securities and company law, the Directive includes the necessary provisions and steps which resolution authorities would have to comply with before and upon taking resolution decisions. For example, these include ensuring an accurate valuation of the insurer’s balance sheet, safeguards for affected shareholders and creditors, including policy holders, to receive compensation if they end up worse than if the insurance or reinsurance undertaking been wound up under national insolvency proceedings, the procedural steps by way of which authorities should notify the insurer and other authorities concerned of resolution decisions and a right of appeal against crisis prevention or crisis management measures. To facilitate resolution and the objective of safeguarding financial stability, the framework also includes a temporary moratorium on the payment of claims and stays in the redemption rights of policy holders in relation to life insurance contracts.

Title IV - Cross-border group resolution (Articles 67 to 71)

To take account of the cross border nature of some insurance groups and create a comprehensive and integrated framework for recovery and resolution actions in the Union, resolution colleges will be established under the leadership of the group resolution authority and with the participation of EIOPA. The EIOPA will facilitate cooperation of authorities, contribute to consistency and mediate if necessary. The objective of the colleges is to coordinate preparatory and resolution measures among national authorities to ensure optimal solutions at Union level.

Title V – Relations with third countries (Articles 72 to 77)

Insurers in the Union are active in third countries and vice versa, and therefore an effective framework for resolution needs to provide for cooperation with third country authorities. The proposal provides Union authorities with the necessary powers to support foreign resolution actions of a failed foreign insurer by giving effect to transfers of its assets and liabilities that are located in or governed by the law of their jurisdiction, under certain conditions. Union resolution authorities should also have the power to apply resolution tools to national branches of third country undertakings where separate resolution is necessary for reasons of public interest or the protection of local policy holders.

The proposal provides that cooperation agreements with foreign resolution authorities could be concluded to facilitate the support for foreign resolution actions. EIOPA could enter into framework administrative arrangements with authorities of third countries in accordance with Article 33 of Regulation No 1094/2010 and national authorities could conclude bilateral arrangements in line with the EIOPA framework arrangements.

Title VI – Penalties (Articles 78 to 82)

In order to ensure compliance by insurers, those who effectively control their business and their administrative, management or supervisory body with the obligations deriving from this proposal, Member States should provide for administrative sanctions and other administrative measures which are effective, proportionate and dissuasive. EIOPA should maintain a central database of all administrative sanctions.

Title VII - Changes to the Solvency II Directive, Company Law Directives and the EIOPA Regulation

Changes to the Solvency II Directive, including on preventive measures (Article 83)

Without affecting the existing ladder of intervention, this proposal clarifies supervisory authorities' powers to impose preventive measures to insurers in cases of deteriorating financial positions or breaches of regulatory requirements, to avoid the escalation of the problems at a sufficiently early stage of deterioration.

In order to achieve an effective resolution, the provisions on reorganisation and winding-up are amended to extend their application in the event of use of the resolution tools both when those instruments are applied to insurers and entities covered by the resolution regime.

Changes to the Company Law Directives and the EIOPA Regulation (Articles 83 to 88)

The Union Company Law Directives contain rules for the protection of shareholders and creditors. Some of these rules may hinder rapid action by resolution authorities. It is therefore proposed to amend these.

In order to ensure that resolution authorities are represented in the European System of Financial Supervision and to ensure that EIOPA has the necessary expertise, Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 would be amended in order to include resolution authorities in the concept of competent authorities.

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 114 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Central Bank[12],

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee[13],

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

(1) Distress of insurance undertakings can have substantial repercussions on the economy and social welfare in Member States should such distress lead to a disruption of the protection provided to policy holders, beneficiaries or injured parties. The role of reinsurance undertakings in the economy, their interconnectedness with primary insurance undertakings and financial markets more broadly, as well as the relatively concentrated reinsurance market require an appropriate framework to deal with their distress or failure in an orderly fashion. The recovery and resolution of both primary insurance undertakings and reinsurance undertakings should therefore be addressed, taking into account their respective specificities.

(2) The global financial crisis of 2008 exposed the vulnerabilities of the financial sector and its interconnectedness. Causes of distress and failure appeared to be linked, amongst others, to the evolution of financial markets and to the intrinsic nature of insurance or reinsurance activities. In that regard, underwriting risks, that is under-provisioned claims, mispricing, that is underestimated premiums, asset-liability mismanagement and investment losses are often referred to as main sources of concern for insurance and reinsurance undertakings. In that context, taxpayer money has been used to restore the deteriorated financial conditions of several insurance undertakings.

Although Directive 2009/138/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council [14] aimed at strengthening the financial system in the Union and the resilience of insurance and reinsurance undertakings, it did not completely eliminate the possibility of failures of such insurance and reinsurance undertakings. High market volatilities and prolonged low levels of interest rates could be particularly harmful for the profitability and solvency position of insurance and reinsurance undertakings. The sensitivity of insurance and reinsurance undertakings to market and economic developments therefore calls for particular caution and an adequate framework to manage, including in a pre-emptive manner, potential deteriorations of the financial positions of such undertakings. Some recent failures and near-failures, in particular of a cross-border nature, illustrated weaknesses of the current framework that need to be addressed to organise adequately the orderly exit from the market of insurance or reinsurance undertakings.

(3) Activities, services or operations performed by insurance or reinsurance undertakings that cannot be substituted easily within a reasonable timeframe, or at a reasonable cost for policy holders, beneficiaries or injured parties, need to be seen as critical functions that need to be continued. Such activities, services or operations can be critical at Union, national or regional level. The continuity of insurance or reinsurance protection is often preferable to the winding down of a failing undertaking as such continuity delivers the most favourable outcome for policy holders, beneficiaries or injured parties. It is therefore crucial that adequate tools are available to prevent failures and, where failures occur, to minimise negative repercussions by preserving the continuity of those critical functions.

(4) Ensuring effective resolution of failing insurance and reinsurance undertakings within the Union is an essential element in the completion of the internal market. The failure of such undertakings has an impact not only on policy holders and possibly the real economy and financial stability of the markets on which those insurance and reinsurance undertakings operate directly, but also on the trust in the internal market for insurance. The completion of the internal market in financial services has reinforced the interplay between the different national financial systems. Insurance and reinsurance undertakings are active on financial markets to manage their investment portfolio and the risks related to their activities. They are interrelated through their derivative operations with the interbank and other financial markets that are, in essence, pan-European. In that context, the inability of Member States to address the failure of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking and resolve it in a way that is predictable and harmonised and would effectively prevent broader systemic damage, can undermine the stability of financial markets and, consequently, the internal market in the field of financial services.

(5) The global financial crisis of 2008 highlighted the need to develop an appropriate recovery and resolution framework for insurance and reinsurance undertakings. At international level, the Financial Stability Board ('FSB') developed, in October 2014, Key Attributes on effective resolution regimes [15] for any insurance undertaking that could be systemically significant or critical if it fails. In June 2016, the FSB released complementary guidance on developing effective resolution strategies and plans for systemically important insurers[16]. In parallel, the International Association of Insurance Supervisors ('IAIS') adopted in November 2019 Insurance Core Principles for all insurance and reinsurance undertakings, a Common Framework for Internationally Active Insurance Groups detailing standards for pre-emptive recovery planning, and actions that authorities are expected to take towards an insurance or reinsurance undertaking that would exit the market and enter into resolution [17]. Those developments should be taken into account when laying down a framework for the recovery and resolution of failing insurance and reinsurance undertakings.

[14] Directive 2009/138/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 November 2009 on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II), (OJ L 335, 17.12.2009, p. 1).

[15] Financial Stability Board, Key Attributes of Effective Resolution Regimes for Financial Institutions, 2014.

(6) Many insurance and reinsurance undertakings are operating beyond national borders. A lack of coordination and cooperation between public authorities to prepare and manage the distress or failure of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking operating across borders would undermine Member States' mutual trust, result in a suboptimal outcome for policy holders, beneficiaries and injured parties and affect the credibility of the internal market for insurance.

(7) There is currently no harmonisation of the procedures at European Union level for resolving insurance or reinsurance undertakings in a coordinated manner. Instead, considerable substantive and procedural differences between national laws, regulations and administrative provisions that govern the failure of insurance and reinsurance undertakings are observed across Member States. In addition, corporate insolvency procedures may not always be appropriate for insurance or reinsurance undertakings, as those procedures may not always ensure an adequate continuation of the critical functions for policy holders, beneficiaries and injured parties, the real economy or the financial stability as a whole.

(8) It is necessary to ensure the continuity of the critical functions of failing insurance or reinsurance undertakings, or of insurance or reinsurance undertakings that are likely to fail, while minimising the impact of such an undertaking's failure on the economy and financial system. It is therefore necessary to lay down a framework to provide authorities with a credible set of tools to intervene sufficiently early and quickly in insurance or reinsurance undertakings that are failing or likely to fail. Such framework should ensure that shareholders bear losses first and that creditors bear losses after shareholders, provided that no creditor incurs greater losses than they would have incurred if the insurance or reinsurance undertaking had been wound up under normal insolvency proceedings in accordance with the no creditor worse off principle.

(9) The framework to be laid down should enable authorities to ensure the continuity of insurance protection for policy holders, beneficiaries and injured parties, transfer viable activities and portfolios of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking where appropriate, and apportion losses in a manner that is fair and predictable. Those objectives should help avoid unnecessary losses or social hardship falling on policy holders, beneficiaries and injured parties, mitigate negative impacts on the real economy, minimise negative effects on financial markets and minimise the costs for taxpayers.

[17] International Association of Insurance Supervisors, Insurance Core Principles and Common Framework for the Supervision of Internationally Active Insurance Groups, 2019.

(10) The review of Directive 2009/138/EC, and in particular the introduction of more risk-sensitive capital requirements, strengthened supervision, enhanced liquidity monitoring and better tools for macro-prudential policies, should further reduce the likelihood of failures of insurance or reinsurance undertakings and enhance the resilience of those undertakings to economic stress, whether caused by systemic disturbances or by events specific to the individual undertaking. Nevertheless, despite a sound and robust prudential framework, situations of financial distress cannot be completely excluded. Member States should therefore be prepared and have adequate recovery and resolution tools in place to handle situations involving both systemic crises and failures of individual undertakings. Such tools should include mechanisms that enable authorities to deal effectively with undertakings that are failing or likely to fail. The use of such tools and the exercise of such powers should take into account the circumstances in which the failure occurs.

(11) Some Member States have already introduced pre-emptive recovery planning requirements, and mechanisms to resolve failing insurance or reinsurance undertakings. However, the absence of common conditions, powers and processes for the recovery and resolution of insurance or reinsurance undertakings across the Union is likely to constitute barriers to the smooth operation of the internal market and hinder cooperation between national authorities when dealing with distressed or failing cross-border groups of undertakings. That is particularly true where different approaches mean that national authorities do not have the same level of control or the same ability to resolve insurance or reinsurance undertakings. Those differences in recovery and resolution regimes may affect the level playing field and potentially create competitive distortions between undertakings. Those barriers should be eliminated and rules should be adopted to ensure that the internal market is not undermined. To that end, rules governing the pre-emptive recovery and resolution of insurance or reinsurance undertakings should be made subject to common minimum harmonisation rules. In order to ensure consistency with existing Union legislation in the area of insurance services, the pre-emptive recovery and resolution regime should apply to insurance or reinsurance undertakings that are subject to the prudential requirements laid down in Directive 2009/138/EC.

(12) The failure of an entity affiliated to a group can rapidly impact the solvency and the operations of the whole group. It is therefore necessary to have in place group pre-emptive recovery and resolution planning requirements. In addition, authorities should possess effective means of action with respect to those entities to impose remedial actions that take into account the financial soundness of all group entities, address impediments to resolvability in a group context and produce a consistent resolution scheme for the group as a whole, in particular in a cross-border context. The pre-emptive recovery and resolution planning and resolvability requirements and the resolution regime should therefore also apply to parent undertakings, holding companies and other group entities, including branches of insurance and reinsurance undertakings that are established outside the Union.

(13) It is necessary to ensure the suitability and effectiveness of the recovery and resolution framework while avoiding unnecessary administrative burdens and costs on undertakings and authorities. The implementation of such recovery and resolution framework should therefore be proportionate to the nature, scale and complexity of the undertaking concerned, and of its activities and services. Regarding the scope of the recovery and resolution planning requirements, authorities should determine, on the basis of a harmonised set of risk-based criteria, which undertakings are subject to the planning requirements. To foster trust in the insurance and reinsurance single market and to foster a level playing field, a minimum degree of preparedness should be achieved through laying down a minimum market coverage level. That minimum market coverage level should however take into account the differences between recovery on the one hand and resolution on the other, and the existence or absence of a public interest for taking resolution action.

(14) For the same reason, authorities should, where appropriate, apply different or reduced pre-emptive recovery and resolution planning and information requirements on an undertaking-specific basis, and at a lower frequency of updates. Authorities should, when applying such simplified obligations, take into account the nature, size, complexity and substitutability of an undertaking's business, its shareholding structure and legal form, its risk profile, its degree of interconnectedness to other regulated undertakings or to the financial system in general. Authorities should also take into account whether the failure and subsequent winding up of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking under normal insolvency proceedings would be likely to have a significant negative effect on policy holders, financial markets, other undertakings, or the wider economy. Authorities should report to EIOPA on the application of such simplified obligations on an annual basis.

(15) For an orderly resolution process, and to avoid conflicts of interest, Member States should appoint public administrative authorities or authorities entrusted with public administrative powers to perform the functions and tasks in relation to the recovery and resolution framework. Member States should ensure that adequate resources are allocated to those resolution authorities. Where a Member State designates a resolution authority that has other functions, adequate structural arrangements should be put in place to separate those functions from the functions related to resolution and to ensure operational independence. Such separation should not prevent the resolution function from having access to any information it requires for the exercise of its duties under the recovery and resolution framework, or for cooperation between different authorities involved in the application of the recovery and resolution framework.

(16) In light of the consequences that the failure of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking may have on policy holders, the financial system and the economy of a Member State, and in light of the possible need to use public funds to deal with such failure, the Ministries of Finance or other relevant ministries in the Member States should be closely involved, at an early stage, in the process of crisis management and resolution.

(17) It is necessary to deal in an efficient manner with deteriorating financial positions of insurance and reinsurance undertakings, or breaches of regulatory requirements by those undertakings, and to prevent the escalation of problems. Supervisory authorities should therefore have the power to impose preventive measures. Such preventive powers should, however, be consistent with the ladder of intervention and the supervisory powers already provided for in Directive 2009/138/EC for similar circumstances, including supervisory powers provided for in the Supervisory Review Process laid down in Article 36 of Directive 2009/138/EC. Such preventive powers should neither lead to a new pre-defined intervention trigger ahead of the Solvency Capital Requirement, laid down in Title I, Chapter VI, Section 4 of that Directive. Supervisory authorities should assess each situation individually and decide upon the need for preventive measures based on the circumstances, the situation of the undertaking and their supervisory judgment.

(18) It is essential that groups, or where applicable, individual undertakings, prepare and regularly update pre-emptive recovery plans that set out actions to be taken by those groups or undertakings to restore their financial position following a significant deterioration of that position that could pose a risk to their viability. Insurance and reinsurance undertakings should therefore identify a set of quantitative and qualitative indicators that would trigger the activation of remedial actions envisaged in such pre-emptive recovery plans. Such indicators should help insurance and reinsurance undertakings to take remedial actions in the best interest of their policy holders and should not lay down new regulatory prudential requirements. Pre-emptive recovery plans covering all material legal entities within the group should be detailed and should be based on realistic assumptions that are applicable in a range of robust and severe scenarios. Those pre-emptive recovery plans should be an integral part of an undertaking's system of governance. Existing tools may serve as an input when preparing such pre-emptive recovery plans, including the own risk and solvency assessment, contingency plans or liquidity risk management plans. The requirement to prepare a pre-emptive recovery plan should, however, be applied proportionately and should be without prejudice to the development and submission of a realistic recovery plan as required by Article 138(2) of Directive 2009/138/EC. Where relevant, the elements of the pre-emptive recovery plan could inform or serve as a basis to develop the recovery plan required by Article 138(2) of Directive 2009/138/EC.

(19) It is necessary to ensure an adequate degree of preparedness for crisis situations. Ultimate parent undertakings or individual insurance or reinsurance undertakings should therefore be required to submit their pre-emptive recovery plans to supervisory authorities for a complete assessment, including the assessment of whether those plans are comprehensive and could feasibly restore an undertaking or group's viability in a timely manner, even in periods of severe financial stress. Where an undertaking presents a pre-emptive recovery plan that is not adequate, supervisory authorities should be empowered to require that undertaking to take measures necessary to redress the material deficiencies of the plan.

(20) Resolution planning is an essential component of effective resolution. Resolution authorities should therefore have all the information necessary to identify critical functions and ensure their continuation. Insurance and reinsurance undertakings have privileged knowledge of their own functioning and any problems arising from it, and resolution authorities should therefore draw up resolution plans on the basis of, inter alia, the information provided by the undertakings concerned. In order to avoid unnecessary administrative burdens, resolution authorities should primarily retrieve the necessary information from the supervisory authorities.

(21) Low risk profile undertakings should, due to their low risk profile, not be obliged to draw up separate pre-emptive recovery plans, nor should they be subject to resolution planning.

(22) In order to anticipate the possible interaction of remedial and resolution measures and to enhance the crisis preparedness and the resolvability of groups, any group treatment for pre-emptive recovery and resolution planning should apply to all group entities subject to group supervision. The pre-emptive recovery and resolution plans should take into account the financial, technical and business structure of the group concerned and its degree of internal interconnectedness.

(23) Group pre-emptive recovery and resolution plans should be prepared for the group as a whole and should identify measures in relation to both an ultimate parent undertaking and individual subsidiaries that are part of that group. The extent to which subsidiaries are considered in the group pre-emptive recovery and resolution plans should, however, be proportionate to their relevance to the group and to policy holders, the real economy and the financial system in the Member States where those subsidiaries operate. The resolution authorities of the Member States where a group has subsidiaries should be involved in the drawing up of any resolution plans. The authorities concerned, acting within the supervisory or resolution colleges, should make every effort to reach a joint decision on the assessment and adoption of those plans. However, adequate crisis preparedness should not be affected by an absence of a joint decision within the supervisory or resolution colleges. In such cases, each supervisory authority responsible for a subsidiary should have the possibility to require a pre-emptive recovery plan for the subsidiaries under its jurisdiction and make its own assessment of the pre-emptive recovery plan. For the same reasons, each resolution authority responsible for a subsidiary should, for the subsidiaries under its jurisdiction, draw up and keep updated a resolution plan. The drawing up of individual pre-emptive recovery and resolution plans for undertakings that are a part of a group should remain exceptional, duly justified and apply the same standards that are applied to comparable undertakings in the Member State concerned. Where individual pre-emptive recovery and resolution plans for undertakings that are a part of a group are prepared, the authorities concerned should aim to achieve, to the extent possible, consistency with pre-emptive recovery and resolution plans for the rest of the group.

(24) In order to keep all authorities concerned fully and permanently informed, supervisory authorities should transmit any pre-emptive recovery plans and any changes thereto to the resolution authorities concerned and resolution authorities should transmit any resolution plans and any changes thereto to the supervisory authorities concerned.

(25) Based on an assessment of the resolvability of insurance or reinsurance undertakings, resolution authorities should have the power to require, either directly or indirectly through the supervisory authority, that insurance or reinsurance undertakings change their structure and organisation. Resolution authorities should also be able to take necessary but proportionate measures to reduce or remove any material impediments to the application of resolution tools and to ensure the resolvability of the entities concerned. Resolution authorities should assess the resolvability of insurance or reinsurance undertakings at the level of those undertakings where it is expected that, in accordance with the group resolution plan, resolution actions would be taken. The resolution authorities' ability to request changes to the structure and organisation of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking, or to take measures to reduce or remove any material impediments to the application of resolution tools and to ensure the resolvability of the undertakings concerned, should not go beyond what is necessary to simplify the structure and operations of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking concerned in order to improve that undertaking's resolvability.

(26) The implementation of actions outlined in a pre-emptive recovery plan or a resolution plan may have effects on staff of insurance or reinsurance undertakings. Those plans should therefore contain procedures for informing and consulting employee representatives throughout the recovery and resolution processes where appropriate. Those procedures should take into account collective agreements, other arrangements provided for by social partners, and national and Union law on the involvement of trade unions and workers' representatives in company restructuring processes.

(27) Effective recovery and resolution of insurance and reinsurance undertakings or group entities operating across the Union requires cooperation among supervisory authorities and resolution authorities within supervisory and resolution colleges at all stages of the process, from the preparation of pre-emptive recovery and resolution plans to the actual resolution of an undertaking. Where authorities disagree on decisions to be taken with regard to groups and undertakings, the European Supervisory Authority (European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority) ('EIOPA'), established by Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council[18] should, as a last resort, play a mediation role.

(28) During the recovery and preventive phases, shareholders should retain full responsibility and control of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking. They should no longer retain such a responsibility once the undertaking has been put under resolution. The resolution framework should therefore provide for a timely entry into resolution, that is before an insurance or reinsurance undertaking is balance sheet or cash flow insolvent, before all equity has been fully wiped out, or before the insurance or reinsurance undertaking is unable to comply with its payment obligations as they come due. Resolution should be initiated where a supervisory authority, after having consulted a resolution authority, or after having been consulted by a resolution authority, determines that an insurance or reinsurance undertaking is failing or likely to fail and alternative measures would not prevent such a failure within a reasonable timeframe. An insurance or reinsurance undertaking should be considered to be failing or likely to fail in any of the following circumstances: (i) where the undertaking breaches or is likely to be in breach of the Minimum Capital Requirement ('MCR') laid down in Title I, Chapter VI, Section 4, of Directive 2009/138/EC and where there is no reasonable prospect of compliance being restored; (ii) where the undertaking no longer fulfils the conditions for authorisation or where the undertaking fails seriously to comply with its legal obligations under the laws and regulations to which it is subject or is likely to seriously fail to comply with its legal obligations under the laws and regulations to which it is subject in the near future in a way that would justify the withdrawal of the authorisation; (iii) where the insurance or reinsurance undertaking is or is likely to be unable to pay its debts or other liabilities in the near future, including payments to policy holders or beneficiaries as they fall due; or (iv) where the insurance or reinsurance undertaking requires extraordinary public financial support.

(29) The use of resolution tools and powers may disrupt the rights of shareholders and creditors of insurance and reinsurance undertakings. In particular, the power of the resolution authorities to transfer the shares or all or part of the assets of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking to a private purchaser without the consent of shareholders affects the property rights of shareholders. In addition, the power to decide which liabilities to transfer out of a failing undertaking to ensure the continuity of services and to avoid adverse effects on policy holders, beneficiaries and injured parties, the real economy or financial stability as a whole, may affect the equal treatment of creditors. Any resolution tool should therefore be applied only to those insurance or reinsurance undertakings that are failing or likely to fail, and only where it is necessary to pursue the resolution objectives in the general interest. In particular, resolution tools should be applied only where the insurance or reinsurance undertaking cannot be wound up under normal insolvency proceedings without unduly affecting the protection of policy holders, beneficiaries and claimants or destabilising the financial system. In addition, resolution measures should be necessary to ensure the rapid transfer and continuation of critical functions and there should be no reasonable prospect for any alternative private solution, including any increase of capital by the existing shareholders or by any third party sufficient to restore the full viability of the entity without having effect on insurance claims. Any interference with the rights of shareholders and creditors that results from resolution action should be compatible with the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union (the Charter). In particular, where creditors within the same class are treated differently in the context of resolution action, such distinctions should be justified in the public interest and be proportionate to the risks being addressed and should be neither directly nor indirectly discriminatory on the grounds of nationality.

(30) When applying resolutions tools and exercising resolution powers, resolution authorities should take all appropriate measures to ensure that resolution action is taken in accordance with the principle that insurance claims are affected after shareholders and that other creditors have borne their share of the losses. In addition, resolution authorities should ensure that the costs of the resolution of insurance or reinsurance undertakings are minimised and that creditors of the same class are treated in an equitable manner.

(31) The write-down or conversion of capital instruments, debt instruments and other eligible liabilities should provide for an internal loss absorption mechanism. That mechanism, combined with transfer tools that aim at maintaining continuity of insurance coverage for the benefit of policy holders, beneficiaries and injured parties, should allow for the achievement of the resolution objectives and should limit to a great extent the impact of a failure of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking on policy holders. There may be extreme cases, however, where the resolution of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking may require the intervention of specific national schemes, in particular an insurance guarantee scheme or a resolution fund, to provide for complementary loss absorbing and restructuring resources or, as a last resort, extraordinary public financing. The necessary safeguards that aim to protect creditors should also reflect the existence of such specific national schemes, which in turn have to comply with the Union State aid framework. The write-down or conversion tool should be applied before the use of any extraordinary public financial support.

(32) Interference with property rights should not be disproportionate. Affected shareholders and creditors of insurance and reinsurance undertakings, including policy holders should therefore not incur greater losses than they would have incurred if the insurance or reinsurance undertaking had been wound up at the time that the resolution decision was taken. In the event of a partial transfer of assets and liabilities of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking under resolution to a private purchaser or to a bridge undertaking, the residual part of the undertaking under resolution should be wound up under normal insolvency proceedings. Shareholders and creditors who are left in the winding up proceedings of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking should be entitled to receive in payment of, or compensation for, their claims in the winding up proceedings not less than what they would have recovered if the whole insurance or reinsurance undertaking had been wound up under normal insolvency proceedings.

(33) To protect the rights of shareholders and creditors, it is necessary to lay down clear obligations concerning the valuation of the assets and liabilities of the undertaking under resolution and concerning the valuation of the treatment that shareholders and creditors would have received if the undertaking had been wound up under normal insolvency proceedings. It is therefore necessary to lay down that, before any resolution action is taken, a fair and realistic valuation of the assets and liabilities of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking is carried out. Such a valuation should be subject to a right of appeal. However, due to the nature of resolution action and its close link with the valuation, such appeal should only be possible where it is simultaneously directed against the resolution decision. In addition, it is necessary to lay down that, after resolution tools have been applied, a comparison is made between the treatment that shareholders and creditors have actually received and the treatment they would have received under normal insolvency proceedings. That ex-post comparison should be challengeable apart from the resolution decision. Shareholders and creditors that have received less than the amount that they would have received under normal insolvency proceedings should be entitled to the payment of the difference.

(34) It is important that losses are recognised upon failure of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking. The valuation of assets and liabilities of failing insurance or reinsurance undertakings should be based on fair, prudent and realistic assumptions at the moment that the resolution tools are applied. The value of liabilities should, however, not be affected in the valuation by the insurance or reinsurance undertaking's financial state. It should be possible, in exceptional cases of urgency, that resolution authorities make a rapid valuation of the assets or the liabilities of a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking. That valuation should be provisional and should apply until an independent valuation is carried out. EIOPA should establish a framework of principles to be used in conducting such valuations and should allow for different specific methodologies to be applied by resolution authorities and independent valuers, as appropriate.

(35) When taking resolution actions, resolution authorities should take into account and follow the measures provided for in the resolution plans unless resolution authorities assess, taking into account circumstances of the case, that resolution objectives will be achieved more effectively by taking actions that are not provided for in the resolution plans.

(36) Resolution tools should be designed and suitable to counter a broad set of largely unpredictable scenarios, taking into account that there could be a difference between a single insurance or reinsurance undertaking in crisis and a broader systemic crisis. Resolution tools should therefore cover each of those scenarios, including the solvent run-off of the undertaking under resolution until its termination, the sale of the business or shares of the undertaking under resolution, the setting up of a bridge undertaking, the separation of assets and liabilities from the impaired or under-performing portfolios of the failing undertaking, and the write-down or conversion of capital instruments and other eligible liabilities of the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking.

(37) Where resolution tools have been used to transfer insurance portfolios to a sound entity, which could be a private sector purchaser or a bridge undertaking, the residual part of the undertaking should be liquidated within an appropriate time frame. The length of that time frame should be based on the need for the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking to provide services or support to enable the private sector purchaser or bridge undertaking to carry out the activities or services acquired by virtue of that transfer.

(38) The sale of business tool should enable resolution authorities to effect a sale of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or parts of its business to one or more purchasers without the consent of shareholders. When applying the sale of business tool, authorities should make arrangements for the marketing of that insurance or reinsurance undertaking or part of its business in an open, transparent and non-discriminatory process, while maximising the sale price as much as possible. Where, for reasons of urgency, such a process is impossible, authorities should take steps to redress detrimental effects on competition and on the internal market.

(39) Any net proceeds from the transfer of assets or liabilities of the undertaking under resolution when applying the sale of business tool should benefit the undertaking left in the winding up proceedings. Any net proceeds from the transfer of shares or other instruments of ownership issued by the undertaking under resolution when applying the sale of business tool should benefit the owners of those shares or other instruments of ownership. Proceeds should be calculated net of the costs arisen from the failure of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking and from the resolution process.

(40) Information concerning the marketing of a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking and negotiations with potential acquirers prior to the application of the sale of business tool are likely to be sensitive and may pose risks for the trust in the insurance market. It is therefore important to ensure that the disclosure to the public of such information, which is required by Regulation (EU) No 596/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council[19], can be delayed for the time necessary to plan and structure the resolution of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking.

(41) A bridge undertaking is an insurance or reinsurance undertaking that is wholly or partially owned by one or more public authorities or controlled by the resolution authority. The main purpose of a bridge undertaking is to ensure that critical functions continue to be provided to the policy holders of the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking. A bridge undertaking should therefore be operated as a viable going concern and should be put back on the market as soon as conditions are appropriate, or be wound up in case the bridge undertaking is not viable.

(42) The asset and liability separation tool should enable authorities to transfer assets, rights or liabilities of an undertaking under resolution to a separate vehicle in order to remove, manage and wind down such assets, rights or liabilities. To prevent an undue competitive advantage for the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking, the asset and liability tool should be used only in conjunction with other tools.

(43) An effective resolution regime should ensure that insurance or reinsurance undertakings can be resolved in a way that minimises the negative impact of a failure on policy holders, taxpayers, the real economy and financial stability. The write-down or conversion should ensure that, before insurance claims are affected, shareholders and creditors of a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking suffer losses first and bear an appropriate part of the costs arising from the failure of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking as soon as a resolution power is used. The write-down or conversion tool should thus give shareholders and creditors of insurance or reinsurance undertakings and, to a certain extent, policy holders, a stronger incentive to monitor the health of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking during normal circumstances.

[19] Regulation (EU) No 596/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 April 2014 on market abuse (market abuse regulation) and repealing Directive 2003/6/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council and Commission Directives 2003/124/EC, 2003/125/EC and 2004/72/EC (OJ L 173, 12.6.2014, p. 1).

(44) It is necessary to ensure that resolution authorities have the necessary flexibility, in a range of circumstances, to place the undertaking in resolution in a solvent run-off, to transfer its assets, rights and liabilities in the best conditions for policy holders, or to allocate remaining losses. It is therefore appropriate to lay down that resolution authorities should be able to apply the write-down or conversion tool both where the objective is to resolve the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking as an undertaking in solvent run-off, and where critical insurance services are transferred while the residual part of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking ceases to operate and is wound up. In that context, the restructuring of insurance liabilities may be warranted to ensure the continuation of a material portion of the insurance coverage and where that is deemed in the best interest of the policy holders.

(45) Where there is a realistic prospect that the undertaking's viability may be restored and policy holders are not suffering any losses in the resolution process, the write-down or conversion tool could be used to restore the undertaking under resolution to a going concern. In such case, the resolution through write-down or conversion should be accompanied by the replacement of the management, except where the retention of the management is appropriate and necessary for the achievement of the resolution objectives.

(46) It is not appropriate to apply the write-down or conversion tool to claims as far as they are secured, collateralised or otherwise guaranteed as such write-down or conversion could be ineffective or due to the potential negative impact of such write-down or conversion on financial stability. However, in order to ensure that the write-down or conversion tool is effective and achieves its objectives, it is desirable that it can be applied to as wide a range of the unsecured liabilities of a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking as possible. Nevertheless, it is appropriate to exclude certain kinds of unsecured liabilities from the scope of application of the write-down or conversion tool. Thus, to ensure the continuity of critical functions, the write-down or conversion tool should not be applied to certain liabilities to employees of the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking or to commercial claims that relate to goods and services critical to the daily functioning of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking. To honour pension entitlements and pension amounts owed or owing to pension trusts and pension trustees, the write-down or conversion tool should not be applied to a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking's liabilities to a pension scheme. To reduce the risk of systemic contagion, the write-down or conversion tool should neither be applied to liabilities arising from a participation in payment systems which have a remaining maturity of less than seven days, or to liabilities to insurance or reinsurance undertakings, credit institutions and investment firms, with the exception of entities that are part of the same group, with an original maturity of less than seven days.

(47) The protection of policy holders, beneficiaries or injured parties is one of the main objectives of resolution. Insurance claims should therefore only be subject to the application of the write-down or conversion tool as a last resort measure and resolution authorities should carefully consider the consequences of a potential write-down of insurance claims stemming from insurance contracts held by natural persons and micro, small and medium-sized enterprises.

(48) Resolution authorities should be able to exclude or partially exclude liabilities in a number of circumstances where it is not possible to write-down or convert such liabilities within a reasonable timeframe, where the exclusion is strictly necessary and proportionate to achieve the resolution objectives, or where the application of the write-down or conversion tool would cause a destruction in value such that losses borne by other creditors would be higher than if those liabilities were not excluded. Where those exclusions are applied, the level of write-down or conversion of other eligible liabilities may be increased to take account of such exclusions, subject to the 'no creditor worse off than under normal insolvency proceedings' principle being respected. At the same time, Member States should not be required to finance resolution from their general budget.

(49) As a rule, resolution authorities should apply the write-down or conversion tool in a way that respects the pari passu treatment of creditors and the statutory ranking of claims under applicable insolvency law. Losses should therefore first be absorbed by regulatory capital instruments and should be allocated to shareholders either through the cancellation or transfer of shares or through severe dilution. Where that is not sufficient, subordinated debt should be converted or written down. Senior liabilities should only be converted or written down where the subordinate debt has been converted or written down entirely.

(50) Exemptions of liabilities, inter alia for payment and settlement systems, employee or trade creditors, or preferential ranking, should equally apply in third countries and the Union. To ensure that liabilities can be written-down or converted in third countries, it is necessary to lay down that contractual provisions governed by the law of third countries recognise that possibility. Such contractual terms should not be required for liabilities exempted from the application of the write-down or conversion tool, or where the law of the third country or a binding agreement concluded with that third country allow the resolution authority of the Member State concerned to apply the write-down or conversion tool.

(51) Shareholders and creditors should contribute, to the extent necessary, to the loss allocation mechanism of a failing undertaking. Therefore, Member States should ensure that Tier 1, Tier 2 and Tier 3 capital instruments fully absorb losses at the point of non-viability of the issuing insurance or reinsurance undertaking. Accordingly, resolution authorities should be required to write-down those instruments in full, or to convert them, where applicable, to Tier 1 instruments, at the point of non-viability and before any resolution action is taken. For that purpose, the point of non-viability should be understood as either the point at which the resolution authority concerned determines that the insurance or reinsurance undertaking meets the conditions for resolution, or the point at which the resolution authority concerned decides that the insurance or reinsurance undertaking would cease to be viable if those capital instruments were not written down or converted. Those requirements should be recognised in the terms governing the instrument, and in any prospectus or offering documents published or provided in connection with the instruments.

(52) Resolution authorities should have all the necessary legal powers that, in different combinations, may be exercised when applying the resolution tools in order to ensure effective execution of resolution. Those legal powers should include the power to transfer shares in, or assets, rights or liabilities of, a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking to another entity, including another undertaking or a bridge undertaking, the power to write-down or cancel shares, or write-down or convert liabilities of a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking, the power to replace the management and the power to impose a temporary moratorium on the payment of claims. Ancillary powers are needed, including the power to require continuity of essential services from other parts of a group.

(53) It is not necessary to prescribe the exact means through which the resolution authorities should intervene in the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking. Resolution authorities should have the choice between taking control through a direct intervention in the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or through executive order. They should decide according to the circumstances of the case.

(54) It is necessary to lay down procedural requirements to ensure that resolution actions are properly notified and made public. Information obtained by resolution authorities and their professional advisers during the resolution process is, however, likely to be sensitive and should therefore be subject to an effective confidentiality regime before the resolution decision is made public. Any information provided in respect of a decision before it is taken, be it on whether the conditions for resolution are satisfied, on the use of a specific tool or of any action during the proceedings, must be presumed to have effects on the public and private interests concerned by the action. It is therefore necessary to ensure that there are appropriate mechanisms for maintaining the confidentiality of such information, including on the content and details of recovery and resolution plans and the result of any assessment carried out in that context.

(55) Resolution authorities should have ancillary powers to ensure the effectiveness of the transfer of shares or debt instruments and assets, rights and liabilities to a third party purchaser or a bridge undertaking. In particular, to facilitate a transfer of insurance claims without affecting the overall risk profile of the related portfolio and of the associated technical provisions and capital requirements, the economic benefits provided by reinsurance agreements should be preserved. Resolution authorities should therefore have the ability to transfer insurance claims together with their corresponding reinsurance rights. That ability should also include the power to remove third parties rights from the transferred instruments or assets, the power to enforce contracts and the power to provide for the continuity of arrangements vis-à-vis the recipient of the transferred assets and shares. The right of a party to terminate a contract with an undertaking under resolution, or a group entity thereof, for reasons other than the resolution of the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking should also remain unaffected. In addition, resolution authorities should have the ancillary power to require the residual insurance or reinsurance undertaking that is being wound up under normal insolvency proceedings to provide services that are necessary to enable the undertaking to which assets or shares have been transferred by virtue of the application of the sale of business tool or the bridge undertaking tool to operate its business.

(56) According to Article 47 of the Charter, everyone whose rights and freedoms guaranteed by the law of the Union are violated has the right to an effective remedy before a tribunal. The decisions taken by resolution authorities should therefore be subject to a right of appeal.

(57) Crisis management measures taken by resolution authorities may require complex economic assessments and a large margin of discretion. Resolution authorities are specifically equipped with the expertise needed for making such assessments and for determining the appropriate use of the margin of discretion. It is therefore important to ensure that the complex economic assessments made by resolution authorities in that context are used as a basis by national courts when reviewing the crisis management measures concerned. However, the complex nature of those assessments should not prevent national courts from examining whether the evidence relied on by the resolution authority is factually accurate, reliable and consistent, whether that evidence contains all relevant information which should be taken into account in order to assess a complex situation and whether it is capable of substantiating the conclusions drawn therefrom.

(58) In order to deal with situations of urgency, it is necessary to provide that the lodging of any appeal does not result in automatic suspension of the effects of the challenged decision and that the decision of the resolution authority is immediately enforceable with a presumption that its suspension would be against the public interest.

(59) It is necessary to protect third parties that have acquired assets, rights and liabilities of the institution under resolution in good faith by virtue of the exercise of the resolution powers by the authorities. It is equally necessary to ensure the stability of the financial markets. A right of appeal against a resolution decision should therefore not affect any subsequent administrative act or transaction concluded on the basis of an annulled decision. In such cases, remedies for a wrongful decision should be limited to the award of compensation for the damages suffered by the affected persons.

(60) Crisis management measures may be required to be taken urgently due to serious financial stability risks in the Member State concerned and the Union. Any procedure under national law relating to the application for ex-ante judicial approval of a crisis management measure and a court's consideration of such an application should therefore be swift. Member States should ensure that the authority concerned can take its decision immediately after a court has given its approval. That possibility should be without prejudice to the right of interested parties to make an application to the court to set aside the decision. However, such possibility should only be granted for a limited period after the resolution authority has taken the crisis management measure in order not to unduly delay the application of the resolution decision.

(61) Efficient resolution and the need to avoid conflicts of jurisdiction require that no normal insolvency proceedings for a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking be opened or continued whilst a resolution authority is exercising its resolution powers or applying resolution tools, except at the initiative of, or with the consent of, the resolution authority. It is therefore necessary to lay down that certain contractual obligations can be suspended for a limited period to enable resolution authorities to apply the resolution tools. That possibility should not, however, apply to obligations in relation to systems designated by a Member State as referred to in Directive 98/26/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council[20], including central counterparties. Directive 98/26/EC reduces the risk associated with participation in payment and securities settlement systems, in particular by reducing disruption in the event of the insolvency of a participant in such a system. It is necessary to ensure that those protections continue to apply in crisis situations and that appropriate certainty for operators of payment and securities systems and other market participants is maintained. A crisis prevention measure or a crisis management measure should therefore not, per se, be deemed to constitute insolvency proceedings within the meaning of Directive 98/26/EC, provided that the substantive obligations under the contract concerned continue to be performed.

(62) It is necessary to ensure that resolution authorities, when transferring assets and liabilities to a private sector purchaser or a bridge undertaking, have an adequate period of time to identify contracts that need to be transferred. It should therefore be possible for resolution authorities to restrict counterparties' rights to close out, accelerate or otherwise terminate financial contracts before the transfer is made. Such restrictions should allow resolution authorities to obtain a true picture of the balance sheet of the failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking without the changes in value and scope that an extensive exercise of termination rights would entail, and should help to avoid creating market instability. Interference with the contractual rights of counterparties should however be restricted to the minimum extent necessary. Any restrictions on termination rights imposed by resolution authorities should therefore only apply in relation to crisis management measures or events directly linked to the application of such measures. Rights to terminate arising from any other default, including failure to pay or deliver margin, should thus remain.

(63) It is necessary to preserve legitimate capital market arrangements in the event of a transfer of some, but not all, of the assets, rights and liabilities of a failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking. It is therefore appropriate to lay down safeguards to prevent the splitting of linked liabilities or linked rights and contracts, including contracts with the same counterparty covered by security arrangements, title transfer financial collateral arrangements, set-off arrangements, close out netting agreements, and structured finance arrangements. Where such safeguards apply, resolution authorities should be bound to transfer all linked contracts within a protected arrangement, or leave them all with the residual failing insurance or reinsurance undertaking. Those safeguards should ensure that the regulatory capital treatment of exposures covered by a netting agreement for the purposes of Directive 2009/138/EC is not affected.

(64) In order to provide financial stability to the insurance and reinsurance undertaking a moratorium on surrender rights of policy holders should be introduced. Such a moratorium and the ensuing financial stability for the undertaking concerned should provide the resolution authorities with sufficient time to valuate those undertakings and to assess which resolution tools should be applied. Such a moratorium should also ensure equal treatment of policy holders, and thus avoid potential adverse financial impacts on policy holders that would not be among the first ones to surrender their policy. Because one of the objectives of resolution is the continuation of insurance cover, policy holders should continue to make any obligatory payments under the insurance contracts concerned, including in the case of annuities.

(65) Ensuring that resolution authorities have the same resolution tools and powers at their disposal will facilitate coordinated action in the event of a failure of a cross-border group. Further action, however, is necessary to promote cooperation and prevent fragmented national responses. To agree to a group resolution scheme when resolving group entities, resolution authorities should therefore be required to consult each other and cooperate in resolution colleges. To provide for a forum for discussion and reaching such agreement, resolution colleges should be established around the core of the existing supervisory colleges through the inclusion of resolution authorities and the involvement of competent ministries, EIOPA and, where appropriate, authorities responsible for the insurance guarantee schemes. Resolution colleges should not be decision-making bodies, but platforms facilitating decision-making by national authorities, while it should be for the national authorities concerned to take the joint decisions.

(66) Resolution of cross-border groups should strike a balance between, on the one hand, the need for procedures that take into account the criticality of the situation and allow for efficient, fair and timely solutions for the group as a whole and, on the other hand, the necessity to protect policy holders, the real economy and financial stability in all the Member States where the group operates. The different resolution authorities should therefore share their views in the resolution college and any resolution actions proposed by the group resolution authority should be prepared and discussed amongst different resolution authorities in the context of the group resolution plans. In order to facilitate swift and joint decisions wherever possible, resolution colleges should also take into account the views of the resolution authorities of all the Member States in which the group is active.

(67) Resolution actions by the group resolution authority should always take into account their impact on policy holders, the real economy and financial stability in the Member States where the group operates. Resolution authorities of the Member State in which a subsidiary undertaking is established should therefore have the possibility to object, as a last resort and in duly justified cases, to the decisions of the group resolution authority where those resolution authorities are of the opinion that the resolution actions and measures are not appropriate, either because of the need to protect policy holders, the real economy and financial stability in that Member State, or because of obligations that comparable undertakings in that Member States are subject to.

(68) Group resolution schemes should facilitate coordinated resolution, which is more likely to deliver the best result for all undertakings of a group. Group resolution authorities should therefore propose group resolution schemes and submit those schemes to the resolution college. Resolution authorities that disagree with a group resolution scheme or decide to take independent resolution action should explain to the group resolution authority and other resolution authorities covered by the group resolution scheme the reasons for their disagreement and notify those reasons, together with details of any independent resolution action they intend to take. Any resolution authority that decides to depart from the group resolution scheme should duly consider the potential impact of such departure on policy holders, the real economy and financial stability in the Member States where the other resolution authorities are located and the potential effects of such departure on other parts of the group.

(69) To ensure coordinated action at group level, resolution authorities should be invited to apply, within a group resolution scheme, the same tool to entities belonging to the group that meet the conditions for resolution. Group resolution authorities should thus have the power to apply the bridge undertaking tool at group level to stabilise a group as a whole and to transfer ownership of subsidiaries to the bridge undertaking with a view to the onward sale of such subsidiaries, either as a package or individually, when market conditions are appropriate. In addition, the group-level resolution authority should have the power to apply the write-down or conversion tool at parent level.

(70) Effective resolution of internationally active insurance and reinsurance undertakings and groups requires cooperation between Member States and third-country resolution authorities. For that purpose, where it is justified by the situation at hand, EIOPA should be empowered to develop and enter into non-binding framework cooperation arrangements with authorities of third countries in accordance with Article 33 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010. For the same reason, national authorities should be permitted to conclude bilateral arrangements with third country authorities in line with EIOPA's framework cooperation agreements. The development of such bilateral arrangements should ensure effective planning, decision-making and coordination in respect of such internationally active insurance and reinsurance undertakings. In order to create a level playing field, such bilateral arrangements should be reciprocal, with resolution authorities recognising and enforcing each other's proceedings, unless any exception that allows for rejection of recognition of third country resolution proceedings applies.

(71) Cooperation between resolution authorities should take place both with regard to subsidiaries of Union or third-country groups as with regard to branches of Union or third-country insurance and reinsurance undertakings. Subsidiaries of third-country groups are undertakings established in the Union and are therefore fully subject to Union law, including the application of any resolution tools. It is necessary, however, that Member States retain the right to act in relation to branches of insurance and reinsurance undertakings having their head office in third countries, where the recognition and application of third-country resolution proceedings relating to a branch would endanger the real economy or financial stability in the Union, or where Union policy holders would not receive equal treatment with third-country policy holders. In those circumstances, Member States should have the right, after having consulted their resolution authorities, to refuse recognition of third-country resolution proceedings.

(72) EIOPA should promote convergence of the practices of resolution authorities through guidelines that are issued in accordance with Article 16 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010. More in particular, EIOPA should specify all of the following: (a) the application of simplified obligations for certain undertakings; (b) the methods to be used when determining the market shares and the criteria for the scope of pre-emptive recovery planning; (c) a minimum list of qualitative and quantitative indicators and a range of scenarios for pre-emptive recovery plans; (d) the criteria for the identification of critical functions; (e) the details on the measures to address or remove impediments to resolvability and the circumstances in which each measure may be applied; and (f) how information should be provided in summary or collective form for the purpose of confidentiality requirements.

(73) Technical standards in financial services should facilitate consistent harmonisation and adequate protection of policy holders, investors and consumers across the Union. As a body with highly specialised expertise, it would be efficient and appropriate, to entrust EIOPA with the development of draft regulatory and implementing technical standards which do not involve policy choices, for submission to the Commission.

(74) The Commission should, where provided for in this Directive, adopt draft regulatory technical standards developed by EIOPA by means of delegated acts pursuant to Article 290 TFEU, in accordance with Articles 10 to 14 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 to specify the following elements: (a) the information to be contained in the pre-emptive recovery plans; (b) the content of resolution plans and the content of group resolution plans; (c) the matters and criteria for the assessment for resolvability; (d) different elements on valuation, including the methodology for calculating the buffer for additional losses to be included in provisional valuations and the methodology for carrying out the valuation of difference in treatment; (e) the contents of the contractual term to be included in financial contract governed by third-country law; (f) the operational functioning of resolution colleges. The Commission should, where provided for in this Directive, adopt draft implementing technical standards developed by EIOPA by means of implementing acts pursuant to Article 291 TFEU, in accordance with Article 15 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 to specify the procedures, content and minimum set of standard forms and templates for the provision of information for the purpose of resolution plans and cooperation from the insurance or reinsurance undertaking.

(75) Directive 2009/138/EC provides for the mutual recognition and enforcement in all Member States of decisions concerning the reorganisation or winding up of insurance undertakings. That Directive ensures that all assets and liabilities of the undertaking, regardless of the country in which they are situated, are dealt with in a single process in the home Member State and that creditors in the host Member States are treated in the same way as creditors in the home Member State. In order to achieve an effective resolution, the provisions on reorganisation and winding-up laid down in Directive 2009/138/EC should apply in the event of use of the resolution tools, both where those instruments are applied to insurance and reinsurance undertakings and where they are applied to other entities covered by the resolution regime. Those provisions should therefore be amended accordingly.

(76) Directive 2004/25/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council[21], Directive 2007/36/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council[22] and Directive (EU) 2017/1132 of the European Parliament and of the Council[23], contain rules on the protection of shareholders and creditors of undertakings that fall within the scope of those Directives. In a situation where resolution authorities need to act rapidly, those rules might hinder effective resolution action and application of resolution tools and powers by resolution authorities. Derogations under Directive 2014/59/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council[24] and Regulation (EU) 2021/23 of the European Parliament and of the Council[25] should therefore be extended to actions taken in the context of the resolution of insurance and reinsurance undertakings. In order to guarantee the maximum degree of legal certainty for stakeholders, such derogations should be set out clearly, should be narrow, and should only be used in the public interest and when resolution triggers are met.

(77) To provide adequate information sharing and access to all concerned authorities, it is necessary to ensure that resolution authorities are represented in all relevant fora and that EIOPA benefits from the expertise necessary to carry out the tasks related to the recovery and resolution of insurance and reinsurance undertakings. Therefore, Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 should be amended to designate resolution authorities

[21] Directive 2004/25/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 21 April 2004 on takeover bids, (OJ L 142, 30.4.2004, p. 12).

[22] Directive 2007/36/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 July 2007 on the exercise of certain rights of shareholders in listed companies (OJ L 184, 14.7.2007, p. 17).

[23] Directive (EU) 2017/1132 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 14 June 2017 relating to certain aspects of company law (OJ L 169, 30.6.2017, p. 46).

[24] Directive 2014/59/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 May 2014 establishing a framework for the recovery and resolution of credit institutions and investment firms and amending Council Directive 82/891/EEC, and Directives 2001/24/EC, 2002/47/EC, 2004/25/EC, 2005/56/EC, 2007/36/EC, 2011/35/EU, 2012/30/EU and 2013/36/EU, and Regulations (EU) No 1093/2010 and (EU) No 648/2012, of the European Parliament and of the Council (OJ L 173, 12.6.2014, p. 190).

[25] Regulation (EU) 2021/23 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 December 2020 on a framework for the recovery and resolution of central counterparties and amending Regulations (EU) No 1095/2010, (EU) No 648/2012, (EU) No 600/2014, (EU) No 806/2014 and (EU) 2015/2365 and Directives 2002/47/EC, 2004/25/EC, 2007/36/EC, 2014/59/EU and (EU) 2017/1132 (OJ L 22, 22.1.2021, p. 1).

as competent authorities as referred to in that Regulation. Such assimilation between resolution authorities and competent authorities is consistent with the functions attributed to EIOPA pursuant to Article 25 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 to contribute and participate actively in the development and coordination of recovery and resolution plans.

(78) It is necessary ensure that insurance and reinsurance undertakings, those who effectively control their business, and their administrative, management or supervisory body comply with their obligations in relation to the resolution of such undertakings. It is equally necessary to ensure that those undertakings, those who effectively control their business, and their administrative, management or supervisory body are subject to similar treatment across the Union. Member States should therefore be required to provide for administrative sanctions and other administrative measures which are effective, proportionate and dissuasive. Such administrative sanctions and other administrative measures should satisfy certain essential requirements in relation to addressees, criteria to be taken into account when applying an administrative sanction or other administrative measure, publication of administrative sanctions or other administrative measures, key penalising powers and levels of administrative fines. Subject to strict professional secrecy, EIOPA should maintain a central database of all administrative sanctions or other administrative measures and information on the appeals reported to it by supervisory authorities and resolution authorities.

(79) Member States should not be required to lay down rules for administrative sanctions or other administrative measures for infringements of this Directive which are subject to national criminal law. However, the maintenance of criminal sanctions rather than administrative sanctions or other administrative measures for infringements should not reduce or otherwise affect the ability of resolution authorities and supervisory authorities to cooperate, access and exchange information in a timely manner with resolution authorities and supervisory authorities in other Member States, including after any referral of the infringements concerned to the competent judicial authorities for prosecution.

(80) Since the objective of this Directive, namely the harmonisation of the rules and processes for the resolution of insurance and reinsurance undertakings, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States, but can rather, by reason of the effects of a failure of any undertaking in the whole Union, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective.

(81) When taking decisions or actions under this Directive, supervisory authorities and resolution authorities should always have due regard to the impact of their decisions and actions on policy holders, the real economy and financial stability in other Member States and should give consideration to the significance of any subsidiary undertaking or of cross-border activities for policy holders, the financial sector and the economy of the Member State where such a subsidiary undertaking is established or the activities are carried out, even in cases where the subsidiary undertaking or the cross-border activities concerned are of lesser importance for the group.

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

1. Member States shall ensure that insurance and reinsurance undertakings that are not part of a group subject to pre-emptive recovery planning pursuant to Article 7 and that meet the criteria laid down in paragraphs 2 or 3, draw up and keep updated a pre-emptive recovery plan. Such pre-emptive recovery plan shall contain measures to be taken by the undertaking concerned to restore its financial position where that position has significantly deteriorated.

The drawing up, the keeping up-to-date and application of pre-emptive recovery plans shall be considered to be part of the system of governance within the meaning of Article 41 of Directive 2009/138/EC.

2. The supervisory authority shall subject insurance and reinsurance undertakings to pre-emptive recovery planning requirements on the basis of their size, business model, risk profile, interconnectedness, substitutability and, in particular, cross-border activity.

Supervisory authorities shall ensure that at least 80% of the Member State's life and non-life and reinsurance market respectively, where the non-life market share is based on gross written premiums and the life market share is based on gross technical provisions, shall be subject to pre-emptive recovery planning requirements pursuant to this Article.

In the calculation of the market coverage level referred to in subparagraph 2, the subsidiary insurance or reinsurance undertakings of a group may be taken into account where those subsidiary insurance or reinsurance undertakings are part of a group for which the ultimate parent undertaking is drawing up and maintaining a group pre-emptive recovery plan referred to in Article 7.

3. Any insurance or reinsurance undertaking which is subject to a resolution plan pursuant to Article 9 shall be subject to pre-emptive recovery planning requirements.

Low risk profile undertakings, however, shall not be subject to pre-emptive recovery planning requirements on an individual basis.

4. EIOPA shall issue guidelines in accordance with Article 16 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 to further specify the methods to be used when determining the market shares referred to in paragraph 2, and the criteria, in particular as regards cross-border activity, referred to in paragraph 2, first subparagraph.

5. Supervisory authorities shall ensure that insurance and reinsurance undertakings update their pre-emptive recovery plans at least annually and after a change to the legal or organisational structure of the undertaking concerned, or to its business or its financial situation, which could have a material effect on, or necessitates a material change to, the pre-emptive recovery plan.

6. Pre-emptive recovery plans shall not assume any access to or receipt of extraordinary public financial support.

7. Member States shall require that pre-emptive recovery plans contain all of the following:

8. Member States shall require that insurance and reinsurance undertakings as referred to in paragraph 1 assess the credibility and feasibility of pre-emptive recovery plans, in particular the framework of indicators referred to in paragraph 8 and the remedial actions, against a range of scenarios of severe macroeconomic and financial stress relevant to the insurance or reinsurance undertaking's specific conditions, including system-wide events, idiosyncratic stress events likely to materially affect their asset and liability profile, and combinations of such stress events.

9. Member States shall require that insurance and reinsurance undertakings ensure that their pre-emptive recovery plans contain a framework of qualitative and quantitative indicators that identify the points at which remedial actions should be considered. Those indicators may include criteria relating to, inter alia, capital, liquidity, asset quality, profitability, market conditions, macro-economic conditions and operational events. Indicators relating to the capital position shall as a minimum contain any breach of the Solvency Capital Requirement laid down in Title I, Chapter VI, Section 4, of Directive 2009/138/EC.

   Member States shall require that supervisory authorities ensure that insurance and reinsurance undertakings put in place appropriate arrangements for the regular monitoring of the indicators referred to in the first subparagraph.

   An insurance or reinsurance undertaking as referred to in paragraph 1 that decides to take a remedial action contained in the pre-emptive recovery plan or decides to refrain from taking such remedial action although an indicator as referred to in the first subparagraph has been met, shall notify such decision to the supervisory authority without delay.

10. The administrative, management or supervisory body of an insurance and reinsurance undertaking as referred to in paragraph 1 shall assess and approve the pre-emptive recovery plan before submitting it to the supervisory authority for review.

11. 12. EIOPA shall develop draft regulatory technical standards further specifying, without prejudice to Article 4, the information that an insurance or reinsurance undertaking as referred to in paragraph 1 is to include in the pre-emptive recovery plan, including the remedial actions referred to in paragraph 7, first subparagraph, point (e) and their implementation.

    EIOPA shall submit those draft regulatory technical standards to the Commission by [PO – add 18 months after entry into force].

    Power is delegated to the Commission to adopt the regulatory technical standards referred to in the first subparagraph in accordance with Articles 10 to 14 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010.

Article 6

Review and assessment by supervisory authorities of pre-emptive recovery plans

1. Supervisory authorities shall, within six months of the submission of each pre-emptive recovery plan as referred to in Article 5 and Article 7, review that plan and assess the extent to which it satisfies the requirements laid down in Article 5 and, where applicable, Article 7, and all of the following :

   (a) whether the implementation of the arrangements proposed in the plan is reasonably likely to maintain or restore the viability and financial position of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or of the group;

(b) whether the plan and specific options within the plan are reasonably likely to be implemented quickly and effectively in situations of financial stress;

(c) whether the plan and specific options within the plan are reasonably likely to avoid to the maximum extent possible any significant adverse effect on the financial system, including in scenarios which would lead other insurance and reinsurance undertakings to implement pre-emptive recovery plans within the same period.

2. Supervisory authorities shall provide resolution authorities with all pre-emptive recovery plans they have received. Resolution authorities may examine the pre-emptive recovery plan to identify any actions in the pre-emptive recovery plan which may adversely impact the resolvability of the insurance or reinsurance undertakings concerned and make recommendations to the supervisory authority with regard to those matters.

3. Where an insurance or reinsurance undertaking carries out significant cross-border activities, the home supervisory authority shall, upon the request of a host supervisory authority, provide the pre-emptive recovery plan to that host supervisory authority. The host supervisory authority may examine the pre-emptive recovery plan to identify any actions in the pre-emptive recovery plan which may adversely impact policy holders, the real economy or the financial stability in its Member State and make recommendations to the home supervisory authority with regard to those matters.

4. Supervisory authorities that, after having assessed the pre-emptive recovery plan, conclude that there are material deficiencies in that plan, or material impediments to its implementation shall notify the insurance or reinsurance undertaking concerned, or the ultimate parent undertaking concerned, of the content of their assessment and require the undertaking concerned to submit, within two months, a revised plan demonstrating how those deficiencies or impediments are addressed. The period of two months may be extended by one month where the supervisory authority so agrees.

Before requiring an insurance or reinsurance undertaking to resubmit a pre-emptive recovery plan, the supervisory authority shall give the undertaking the opportunity to state its opinion on that requirement.

A supervisory authority that finds that the deficiencies and impediments have not been adequately addressed in the revised plan may instruct the undertaking to make specific changes to the plan.

5. Where the insurance or reinsurance undertaking fails to submit a revised pre-emptive recovery plan, or where the supervisory authority comes to the conclusion that the revised pre-emptive recovery plan does not adequately remedy the deficiencies or potential impediments identified in its original assessment, and where it is not possible to adequately remedy the deficiencies or impediments through a direction to make specific changes to the plan, the supervisory authority shall require the undertaking to identify within a reasonable timeframe changes the undertaking can make to its business in order to address the deficiencies in the pre-emptive recovery plan or impediments to the implementation of that plan.

Where the insurance or reinsurance undertaking fails to identify such changes within the timeframe set by the supervisory authority, or where the supervisory authority concludes that the actions proposed by the undertaking would not adequately address the deficiencies or impediments, the supervisory authority may take a reasoned decision to direct the undertaking to take any measures it considers to be necessary and proportionate, taking into account the seriousness of the deficiencies and impediments and the effect of the measures on the undertaking's business.

The reasoned decision referred to in the second subparagraph shall be notified in writing to the insurance or reinsurance undertaking and shall be subject to a right of appeal.

Article 7

Group pre-emptive recovery plans

1. Member States shall ensure that ultimate parent undertakings draw up and submit to the group supervisor a group pre-emptive recovery plan.

   The group pre-emptive recovery plan shall contain arrangements to ensure the coordination and consistency of proportionate measures to be taken at the level of the group and the group entities.

3. The group pre-emptive recovery plan, and any plan drawn up for an individual subsidiary insurance or reinsurance undertaking, shall contain the elements specified in Article 5.

   The group pre-emptive recovery plan shall identify whether there are obstacles to the implementation of remedial actions within the group, including at the level of individual entities covered by the plan, and whether there are substantial practical or legal impediments to the prompt transfer of own funds or the repayment of liabilities or assets within the group.

4. Supervisory authorities may require subsidiary insurance or reinsurance undertakings or the entities referred to in Article 1(1), points (c) and (d), to draw up and submit pre-emptive recovery plans in the following situations:

   (a) no group pre-emptive recovery plan exists;

   (b) the supervisory authority concerned demonstrates that the concerned entity is not sufficiently considered by a group pre-emptive recovery plan in light of the significance of the entity in question in the Member State concerned and in light of the obligations that comparable undertakings in that Member State are subject to.

5. The group supervisor shall, provided that the confidentiality requirements laid down in Articles 64 are in place, transmit the group pre-emptive recovery plans to:

1. The group supervisor shall, after having consulted the relevant supervisory authorities which are members of or participate in the supervisory college as referred to in Article 248(3) of Directive 2009/138/EC, review the group pre-emptive recovery plan and assess the extent to which it satisfies the requirements and criteria laid down in Articles 6 and this Article. That assessment shall be made in accordance with the procedure established in Article 6 and with this Article and shall take into account the potential impact of the remedial actions on policy holders, the real economy and financial stability in all the Member States where the group operates.

2. The group supervisor shall endeavour to reach a joint decision, as referred to in Article 17, within the college of supervisors on:

(a) the review and assessment of the group pre-emptive recovery plan and whether a recovery plan on an individual basis is to be drawn up for insurance and reinsurance undertakings that are part of the group, as laid down in Article 7(3);

(b) the application of the measures referred to in Article 6, paragraphs (3) and (4).

SECTION 3
RESOLUTION PLANNING

Article 9

Resolution plans

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities, after having consulted the supervisory authority, draw up a resolution plan for each insurance and reinsurance undertaking that meets the criteria laid down in paragraph 2, that is not part of a group subject to resolution planning pursuant to Articles 10 and 11. The resolution plan shall provide for the resolution actions which the resolution authority may take where the insurance or reinsurance undertaking meets the conditions for resolution referred to in Article 19(1) or Article 20(3).

2. Resolution authorities shall draw up resolution plans for insurance and reinsurance undertakings to be selected on the basis of their size, business model, risk profile, interconnectedness, substitutability and the likely impact of the failure on policy holders. When selecting the insurance and reinsurance undertakings subject to resolution planning, the resolution authority shall in particular take into account the cross-border activity of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking and the existence of critical functions.

Resolution authorities shall ensure that at least 70% of the Member State's life and non-life and reinsurance market respectively, where the non-life market share is based on gross written premiums and the life market share is based on gross technical provisions, shall be subject to resolution planning. In the calculation of the market coverage level, the subsidiaries of a group may be taken into account where those subsidiaries are covered in the group resolution plan referred to in Article 10.

Low risk profile undertakings shall not be subject to resolution planning requirements on an individual basis.

3. Where the insurance or reinsurance undertaking concerned carries out significant cross-border activities, home resolution authorities shall, upon the request of a host supervisory or resolution authority, provide the draft resolution plan to that host supervisory or resolution authority. The host supervisory or resolution authority may examine the draft resolution plan to identify any actions in the draft resolution plan which may adversely impact policy holders, the real economy or the financial stability in its Member State and make recommendations to the home resolution authority with regard to those matters.

4. When specifying the options for application of resolution tools and powers, resolution plans shall take into consideration relevant resolution scenarios, including the scenario where the failure of the insurance and reinsurance undertaking is idiosyncratic or occurs at a time of broader financial instability or system wide events.

Resolution plans shall not assume any extraordinary public financial support besides, where available, the use of insurance guarantee schemes or of any financing arrangements.

5. Resolution authorities shall review, and where necessary update, resolution plans at least annually and after any material change to the legal or organisational structure of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or to its business or its financial position that could have a material effect on the effectiveness of the plan or otherwise necessitate a revision of the resolution plan.

Insurance and reinsurance undertakings and supervisory authorities shall promptly communicate to the resolution authorities any event that necessitates a revision or update of the resolution plan.

6. Without prejudice to Article 4, resolution plans shall set out options for applying the resolution tools and resolution powers to the insurance or reinsurance undertaking. Resolution plans shall contain, quantified whenever appropriate and possible, all of the following:

(a) a summary of the key elements of the plan;

CHAPTER II
Resolvability

Article 13

Assessment of resolvability

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities, after having consulted the supervisory authority, assess the extent to which insurance or reinsurance undertakings that are not part of a group are resolvable without the assumption of any extraordinary public financial support besides, where available, the use of insurance guarantee schemes or of any financing arrangements.

An insurance or reinsurance undertaking shall be deemed resolvable where it is feasible and credible for that undertaking to be liquidated under normal insolvency proceedings, or for the resolution authority to resolve that undertaking by applying to it the different resolution tools referred to in Article 26(3) and resolution powers referred to in Articles 40 to 52.

2. Resolution authorities shall make the resolvability assessment referred to in paragraph 1 at the same time as, and for the purposes of, the drawing up and updating of the resolution plan in accordance with Article 9.

besides, where available, the use of insurance guarantee schemes or of any financing arrangements.

2. A group shall be deemed resolvable where it is feasible and credible for the resolution authorities either to wind up group entities under normal insolvency proceedings, to resolve that group by applying resolution tools to, and exercising resolution powers with respect to, group entities where they can be easily separated in a timely manner, or by any other means provided for under national law.

The resolution colleges referred to in Article 68 shall take into account the assessment of group resolvability when discharging their functions.

3. Group resolution authorities shall make the resolvability assessment of groups at the same time as, and for the purposes of, the drawing up and updating of the group resolution plans in accordance with Article 10. The assessment shall be made under the decision-making procedure laid down in Article 11.

Article 15

2. The requirement for resolution authorities to draw up resolution plans and for the relevant resolution authorities to reach a joint decision in accordance with Article 17 on group resolution plans referred to in Article 9(1) and Article 11(4) respectively shall be suspended following the notification referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article until the measures to remove the substantive impediments to resolvability have been accepted by the resolution authority pursuant to paragraph 3 of this Article or decided upon pursuant to paragraph 4 of this Article.

3. Within four months of the date of receipt of a notification referred to in paragraph 1, the insurance or reinsurance undertaking shall propose to the resolution authority possible measures to address or remove the substantive impediments identified in the notification.

The resolution authority, after having consulted the supervisory authority, shall assess whether the measures referred to in the first subparagraph effectively address or remove the substantive impediment concerned.

4. Resolution authorities that find that the measures proposed by an insurance or reinsurance undertaking in accordance with paragraph 3, first subparagraph, do not effectively reduce or remove the impediments concerned, shall, either directly, or indirectly through the supervisory authority, require the insurance or reinsurance undertaking concerned to take any of the alternative measures referred to in paragraph 5, and notify such measures in writing to that entity, which shall propose a plan to comply with those requirements within one month after having received such notification.

When identifying alternative measures, resolution authorities shall demonstrate how the measures proposed by the insurance or reinsurance undertaking would not be able to remove the impediments to resolvability and how the alternative measures proposed are proportionate in removing those impediments. Resolution authorities shall take into account the effect of the measures on the business of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking, its stability and its ability to contribute to the economy.

5. The alternative measures referred to in paragraph 4 shall be any of the following:

(a) require the insurance or reinsurance undertaking to revise any intra-group financing agreements or review the absence thereof, or draw up service agreements, whether intra-group or with third parties;

(i) require an insurance or reinsurance undertaking or a parent undertaking to set up a parent insurance holding company in a Member State or a Union parent insurance holding company;

(j) where an insurance or reinsurance undertaking is the subsidiary of a mixed-activity insurance holding company, require that the mixed-activity insurance holding company sets up a separate insurance holding company to control the insurance or reinsurance undertaking, where necessary to facilitate the resolution of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking and to avoid that the application of resolution tools and the exercise of resolution powers has an adverse effect on the non-financial part of the group.

6. Before identifying any alternative measure referred to in paragraph 5, the resolution authority, after having consulted the supervisory authority, shall duly consider the potential effect of such measure on the soundness and stability of that particular insurance or reinsurance undertaking's ongoing business and on the internal market.

7. A notification or decision made pursuant to paragraph 1 or 4:

(a) shall contain the reasons for the assessment or determination in question;

8. EIOPA shall, by [PO – add 18 months after entry into force], issue guidelines in accordance with Article 16 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 to specify further details on the measures provided for in paragraph 5 and the circumstances in which each measure may be applied.

2. The group resolution authority, in cooperation with the group supervisor and with EIOPA, in accordance with Article 25(1) of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010, shall prepare and submit a report to the ultimate parent undertaking and to the resolution authorities of subsidiaries, which shall provide that report to the subsidiaries within their remit. The report shall be prepared after having consulted the supervisory authorities, and shall analyse the substantive impediments to the effective application of the resolution tools referred to in Article 26(3) and the exercise of the resolution powers referred to in Articles 40 to 52 in relation to the group. The report shall recommend any proportionate and targeted measures that, in the view of the group resolution authority, are necessary or appropriate to remove those impediments, considering the impact of those measures on the group's business model.

3. Within four months of the date of receipt of the report, the ultimate parent undertaking may submit observations and propose to the group resolution authority alternative measures to remedy the impediments identified in the report.

The resolution authority, after having consulted the supervisory authority, shall assess whether those measures effectively address or remove the substantive impediment.

4. The group resolution authority shall communicate any measure proposed by the ultimate parent undertaking to the authorities that are members of or participate in the resolution college. The group resolution authorities and the resolution authorities of the subsidiaries, after having consulted the supervisory authorities, shall do everything within their power to reach a joint decision, as referred to in Article 17, within the resolution college regarding the identification of substantive impediments, and where necessary, regarding the assessment of the measures proposed by the ultimate parent undertaking and the measures required by the authorities in order to address or remove the impediments. 2. In the absence of a joint decision within the period referred to in paragraph 1 on any of the matters listed in the second subparagraph, the group supervisor or the group resolution authority, as applicable, shall make its own decision on those matters.

6. The supervisory authorities or resolution authorities that do not disagree with a decision as referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 may reach a joint decision on a group pre-emptive recovery plan or group resolution plan covering group entities under their jurisdictions.

7. 8. The joint decision referred to in Articles 8(2), Article 11(4), Article 16(4) and paragraph 6 of this Article and the decisions referred to in paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 of this Article shall be recognised as conclusive and applied by the other supervisory authorities or resolution authorities concerned in the Member States concerned.

3. Without prejudice to the Union State aid framework, where applicable, a definitive valuation shall be based on prudent assumptions and shall not assume any potential provision of extraordinary public financial support from the point in time at which resolution action is taken.

4. A definitive valuation shall be supplemented by the following information held by the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e):

(a) an updated financial statement and an updated Solvency II economic valuation of the balance sheet of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e);

(b) a report on the financial position of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking, including an evaluation by an independent actuarial function of the technical provisions referred to in Title I, Chapter VI, Section 2 of Directive 2009/138/EC of insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e);

(c) any additional information on the market and accounting values of the assets, technical provisions, referred to in Title I, Chapter VI, Section 2 of Directive 2009/138/EC, and other liabilities of insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e).

5. A definitive valuation shall indicate the subdivision of the creditors in classes in accordance with their priority levels under the applicable insolvency law. The definitive valuation shall also contain an estimation of the treatment that each class of shareholders and creditors would have been expected to receive if the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), were wound up under normal insolvency proceedings.

The estimate referred to in the first subparagraph shall not prejudice the valuation referred to in Article 54.

6. EIOPA shall develop draft regulatory technical standards to specify:

(a) the circumstances in which a person is deemed to be independent from both the resolution authority and the insurance or reinsurance undertaking for the purposes of paragraph 1 of this Article;

(b) the methodology for assessing the value of the assets and liabilities of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking in the context of resolution;

(c) the separation of the valuations under Articles 23 and 54 of this Directive.

EIOPA shall submit those draft regulatory technical standards to the Commission by [PO – add 18 months after entry into force].

Power is delegated to the Commission to adopt the regulatory technical standards referred to in the first subparagraph in accordance with Articles 10 to 14 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010.

Article 25

Provisional and definitive valuations

1. Valuations as referred to in Article 23 that do not meet the requirements laid down in Article 24(2) shall be considered provisional valuations.

Provisional valuations shall contain a buffer for additional losses and an appropriate justification for that buffer.

2. Resolution authorities that take resolution action on the basis of a provisional valuation shall ensure that a definitive valuation is carried out as soon as possible.

The resolution authority shall ensure that the definitive valuation referred to in the first subparagraph:

(a) allows for full recognition of any losses of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking in its books;

(b) informs a decision to write back creditors' claims or to increase the value of the consideration paid, in accordance with paragraph 3.

3. Where the definitive valuation's estimate of the net asset value of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking is higher than the provisional valuation's estimate of the net asset value of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking, the resolution authority may:

(a) increase the value of the claims of affected creditors which have been written down or restructured;

(b) require a bridge undertaking to make a further payment of consideration in respect of the assets, liabilities, rights and obligations to the insurance or reinsurance undertaking under resolution or, as the case may be, to the owners of the instruments of ownership.

4. EIOPA shall develop draft regulatory technical standards to specify, for the purposes of paragraph 1 of this Article, the methodology for calculating the buffer for additional losses to be included in provisional valuations.

EIOPA shall submit those draft regulatory technical standards to the Commission by [PO – add 18 months after entry into force].

Power is delegated to the Commission to adopt the regulatory technical standards referred to in the first subparagraph in accordance with Articles 10 to 14 of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010.

CHAPTER III
Resolution tools

SECTION 1
GENERAL PRINCIPLES

Article 26

General provisions on resolution tools

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities have the necessary powers to apply the resolution tools to insurance and reinsurance undertakings and to entities referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), that meet the conditions for resolution referred to in Article 19(1) or Article 20(3).

2. Where a resolution authority decides to apply a resolution tool to an insurance or reinsurance undertaking or an entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), and that resolution action would result in losses being borne by creditors, in particular policy holders, or would result in their claims being restructured or converted, the resolution authority shall exercise the power to write down or convert capital instruments and eligible liabilities in accordance with Article 34 immediately before or together with the application of the resolution tool.

The conversion of eligible liabilities into capital instruments shall not apply to insurance claims.

3. The resolution tools referred to in paragraph 1 are the following:

(a) the solvent run-off tool;

(b) the sale of business tool;

(c) the bridge undertaking tool;

(d) the asset and liability separation tool;

(e) the write-down or conversion tool.

Subject to paragraph 5, resolution authorities may apply the resolution tools individually or in any combination, except for the asset and liability separation tool, which may only be used together with another resolution tool.

4. Where only the sale of business and the bridge undertaking tool are used, and where those tools are used to transfer only part of the assets, rights or liabilities of the undertaking under resolution, the residual insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), from which the assets, rights or liabilities have been transferred, shall be wound up under normal insolvency proceedings. Such winding up shall be done within a reasonable timeframe, having regard to any need for that residual insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), to provide services or support pursuant to Article 43 to enable the recipient to carry out the activities or services acquired by virtue of that transfer, and any other reason that the continuation of the residual insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), is necessary to achieve the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 or comply with the principles referred to in Article 22.

Where the solvent run-off tool is used and where the net asset value of the undertaking under resolution in solvent run-off has become negative, the residual insurance or reinsurance undertaking shall be wound up under normal insolvency proceedings.

5. The resolution authority may recover any reasonable expenses properly incurred in connection with the use of the resolution tools or exercising the resolution powers in one or more of the following ways:

(a) as a deduction from any consideration paid by a recipient to the undertaking under resolution or, as the case may be, to the owners of the shares or other instruments of ownership;

(b) from the undertaking under resolution, as a preferred creditor;

(c) from any proceeds generated as a result of the termination of the operation of the bridge undertaking, the asset and liability management vehicle or the insurance or reinsurance undertaking in solvent run-off, as a preferred creditor.

6. Member States shall ensure that rules of national insolvency law on the voidability or unenforceability of legal acts detrimental to creditors do not apply to transfers of assets, rights or liabilities from an undertaking under resolution to another entity by virtue of the application of a resolution tool or the exercise of a resolution power.

7. Member States may confer upon resolution authorities additional tools and powers exercisable where an insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), meets the conditions for resolution referred to in Article 19(1) or Article 20(3), provided that:

(a) when applied to a cross-border group, those additional tools and powers do not pose obstacles to effective group resolution;

(b) those tools and powers are consistent with the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 and the general principles governing resolution laid down in Articles 18 and 22.

SECTION 2
THE SOLVENT RUN-OFF TOOL

Article 27

The solvent run-off tool

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities have the power to withdraw the authorisation of the undertaking under resolution to write new insurance or reinsurance contracts and place the undertaking under resolution in a solvent run-off procedure to terminate the activities of that undertaking.

2. Resolution authorities shall ensure that an insurance or reinsurance undertaking under resolution in a solvent run-off is capable of retaining adequately trained and competent staff to ensure the orderly continuation of its insurance activities in run-off until its liquidation.

3. Resolution authorities shall monitor, in close cooperation with supervisory authorities, the costs and expenses of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking under resolution to preserve its value and marketability.

4. Resolution authorities shall, in close cooperation with supervisory authorities, assess intended changes to the composition of assets, monitor closely reinsurance arrangements and require, at least on a quarterly basis, independent actuarial reviews of the technical provisions and reserves.

5. In application of the solvent run-off tool, resolution authorities shall restrict or prohibit any remuneration of equity and instruments treated as equity, including dividend payments, and shall restrict or prohibit any payments of variable remuneration and discretionary pension benefits.

6. Resolution authorities shall take a decision that an undertaking under resolution in solvent run-off has to be liquidated in any of the following cases, whichever occurs first:

   (a) the undertaking under resolution in solvent run-off merges with another entity;

   (b) all or substantially all of the assets, rights or liabilities of the undertaking under resolution in solvent run-off are sold to a third party purchaser;

   (c) the assets of the undertaking under resolution in solvent run-off are completely wound down and its liabilities are completely discharged;

   (d) the net asset value of the undertaking under resolution in solvent run-off has become negative.

7. Where the operations of an undertaking under resolution in solvent run-off are terminated in the circumstances referred to in paragraph 6, point (b), the residual insurance or reinsurance undertaking shall be wound up under normal insolvency proceedings.

Subject to Article 26(6), any proceeds generated as a result of the termination of the operation of the insurance or reinsurance undertaking in run-off shall benefit its shareholders.

SECTION 3
THE ASSET AND LIABILITY SEPARATION TOOL, THE SALE OF BUSINESS TOOL, AND THE BRIDGE UNDERTAKING TOOL

Article 28

Principles for the application of the asset and liability separation tool, the sale of business tool, and the bridge undertaking tool

1. Member States shall ensure that, subject to Article 31, paragraphs 5 and 6 and Article 65 , resolution authorities have the power to use the asset and liability separation tool, the sale of business tool, and the bridge undertaking tool without obtaining the consent of the shareholders of the undertaking under resolution or any third party, other than the purchaser or the bridge undertaking, and without complying with any procedural requirements under company or securities law, other than those laid down in Article 29.

2. Subject to Article 26(7), any consideration paid by the purchaser or the bridge undertaking shall benefit:

   (a) the owners of the shares or of other instruments of ownership, where such shares or such other instruments of ownership issued by the undertaking under resolution have been transferred from the holders of those shares or instruments to the purchaser or the bridge undertaking;

   (b) the undertaking under resolution, where some or all of the assets or liabilities of the undertaking under resolution have been transferred to the purchaser or the bridge undertaking.

3. Subject to Article 26(7), any consideration paid by an asset and liability management vehicle as referred to in Article 30(2) in respect of the assets, rights or liabilities acquired directly from the undertaking under resolution shall benefit the undertaking under resolution. Consideration may be paid in the form of debt issued by the asset and liability management vehicle.

4. Transfers made by using the asset and liability tool, the sale of business tool or the bridge undertaking tool shall be subject to the safeguards referred to in Title III, Chapter V.

5. Resolution authorities may use the asset and liability separation tool, the sale of business tool and the bridge undertaking tool more than once to make supplemental transfers where necessary to achieve the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18.

6. Member States shall ensure that the purchaser or the bridge undertaking referred to in paragraph 1 may continue to exercise the rights of membership and access to, where relevant, payment, clearing and settlement systems, stock exchanges and insurance guarantee schemes of the undertaking under resolution, provided that it meets the membership and participation criteria for participation in such systems.

In cases where not all criteria listed in the first subparagraph are met, Member States shall ensure that:

(a) membership or participation in payment, clearing and settlement systems, stock exchanges and insurance guarantee schemes is not denied on the ground that the purchaser or the bridge undertaking does not possess a rating from a credit rating agency, or that such rating is not commensurate with the rating levels required to be granted access to such systems or schemes;

(b) where the purchaser or the bridge undertaking does not meet the membership or participation criteria of a payment, clearing or settlement system, stock exchange or insurance guarantee scheme, the rights referred to in the first subparagraph are exercised for a period of time specified by resolution authorities, not exceeding 24 months, and renewable on application by the purchaser or the bridge undertaking to the resolution authority.

7. Without prejudice to Title III, Chapter V, shareholders or creditors of the undertaking under resolution and other third parties whose assets, rights or liabilities are not transferred by using the asset and liability tool, the sale of business tool or the bridge undertaking tool, shall not have any rights or claims over or in relation to the assets, rights or liabilities transferred or over or in the administrative, management or supervisory body or senior management of the bridge undertaking or the assets and liabilities management vehicle.

Procedural requirements regarding sales of business, assets, rights or liabilities in resolution

1. Subject to paragraph 3 of this Article, Member States shall ensure that, where resolution authorities seek to apply the sale of business tool, or sell a bridge undertaking, or its assets, rights or liabilities, the undertaking under resolution, the bridge undertaking or the assets, rights, liabilities, shares or other instruments of ownership concerned are marketed in accordance with the criteria set out in paragraph 2. Pools of rights, assets, and liabilities may be marketed separately.

2. Without prejudice to the Union State aid framework, where applicable, the marketing criteria referred to in paragraph 1 are the following:

(a) marketing shall be as transparent as possible and shall not materially misrepresent the assets, rights, liabilities, shares or other instruments of ownership of the undertaking or bridge undertaking that a resolution authority intends to transfer;

(b) marketing shall not unduly favour, or discriminate between, potential purchasers;

(c) marketing shall be free from any conflict of interest;

(d) marketing shall not confer any unfair advantage on a potential purchaser;

(e) marketing shall take account of the need to effect a rapid resolution action;

(f) marketing shall aim at maximising, as far as possible, the sale price for the shares or other instruments of ownership, assets, rights or liabilities involved.

The principles referred to in this paragraph shall not prevent resolution authorities from soliciting particular potential purchasers.

Any public disclosure of the marketing of the undertaking under resolution or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), or of the bridge undertaking that would otherwise be required in accordance with Article 17(1) of Regulation (EU) No 596/2014 may be delayed in accordance with Article 17, paragraph 4 or 5 of that Regulation.

3. Resolution authorities may decide not to comply with the requirement to market a sale where they determine that compliance with the requirements laid down in paragraph 2 would be likely to undermine one or more of the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18.

Article 30

The asset and liability separation tool

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities have the power to transfer assets, rights or liabilities of an undertaking under resolution or a bridge undertaking to one or more asset and liability management vehicles.

2. For the purposes of the asset and liability separation tool, an asset and liability management vehicle shall be a legal person that meets all of the following requirements:

   (a) it is wholly or partially owned by one or more public authorities which may include the resolution authority and is controlled by the resolution authority;

   (b) it has been created for the purpose of receiving some or all of the assets, rights and liabilities of one or more undertakings under resolution or a bridge undertaking.

3. The asset and liability management vehicle shall manage the portfolios transferred to it with a view to maximise their value through a sale of those portfolios or an orderly wind down.

4. Member States shall ensure that the operation of an asset and liability management vehicle respects the following requirements:

   (a) the resolution authority concerned has approved the asset and liability management vehicle’s constitutional documents;

   (b) subject to the asset and liability management vehicle’s ownership structure, the resolution authority concerned either appoints or approves the vehicle’s administrative, management or supervisory body;

   (c) the resolution authority concerned approves the remuneration of the members of the administrative, management or supervisory body and specifies their responsibilities;

   (d) the resolution authority concerned approves the strategy and risk profile of the asset and liability management vehicle.

5. Resolution authorities may exercise the power specified in paragraph 1 to transfer assets, rights or liabilities only in conjunction with other resolution tools as referred to in Article 26(3) and where any of the following situations occurs:

(a) the situation of the particular market for those assets, rights or liabilities is such that the liquidation of those assets, rights or liabilities under normal insolvency proceedings could have an adverse effect on one or more financial markets;

(b) such a transfer is necessary to facilitate the use of the solvent run-off tool or to ensure the proper functioning of the undertaking under resolution or a bridge undertaking;

(c) such a transfer is necessary to maximise liquidation proceeds.

6. When applying the asset and liability separation tool, resolution authorities shall, in accordance with Article 23 and in accordance with the Union State aid framework, determine the consideration for which assets, rights and liabilities are transferred to the asset and liability management vehicle. This paragraph shall not prevent the consideration having nominal or negative value.

7. Where resolution authorities have applied the bridge undertaking tool, asset and liability management vehicles may, subsequent to the application of the bridge undertaking tool, acquire assets, rights or liabilities from the bridge undertaking.

8. Resolution authorities may transfer assets, rights or liabilities from the undertaking under resolution to one or more asset and liability management vehicles on more than one occasion and transfer assets, rights or liabilities back from one or more asset and liability management vehicles to the undertaking under resolution in any of the following situations:

(a) the possibility that the assets, rights or liabilities might be transferred back is stated expressly in the instrument under which the transfer was made;

(b) the assets, rights or liabilities do not fall within the classes of, or meet the conditions for transfer of, assets, rights or liabilities specified in the instrument under which the transfer was made.

In either of the cases referred in points (a) and (b), the transfer back may be made within any period, and shall comply with any other conditions, stated in that instrument for the relevant purpose.

The undertaking under resolution shall be obliged to take back any assets, rights or liabilities transferred in accordance with points (a) and (b).

9. The objectives of an asset and liability management vehicle shall not imply any duty or responsibility to shareholders or creditors of the undertaking under resolution. The members of the administrative, management or supervisory body or senior management of the asset and liability management vehicle shall have no liability to such shareholders or creditors for acts and omissions in the discharge of their duties, unless such acts or omissions implied gross negligence or serious misconduct under national law which have directly affected the rights of such shareholders or creditors.

Member States may further limit the liability of an asset and liability management vehicle, and of the members of its administrative, management or supervisory body or senior management for acts and omissions in the discharge of their duties.

Article 31

The sale of business tool

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities have the power to transfer to a purchaser other than a bridge undertaking:

   (a) shares or other instruments of ownership issued by an undertaking under resolution;

   (b) all or any assets, rights or liabilities of an undertaking under resolution.

2. A transfer made pursuant to paragraph 1 shall be made on commercial terms, having regard to the circumstances, and in accordance with the Union State aid framework.

   Resolution authorities shall take all reasonable steps to obtain commercial terms for the transfer that are conform with the valuation conducted under Article 23, having regard to the circumstances of the case.

3. Resolution authorities may, with the consent of the purchaser, revert the executed transfers where justified by the circumstances of the case. The undertaking under resolution or the original owners shall be obliged to take back any transferred shares or other instruments of ownership, or assets, rights or liabilities.

4. Purchasers shall be required to have the appropriate authorisation to carry out the business they acquire when a transfer as referred to in paragraph 1 is made. Supervisory authorities shall ensure that any application for such authorisation shall be considered, in conjunction with the transfer, in a timely manner.

5. By way of derogation from Articles 57 to 62 of Directive 2009/138/EC, where a transfer of shares or of other instruments of ownership by virtue of an application of the sale of business tool would result in the acquisition of or increase in a qualifying holding in an insurance or reinsurance undertaking as referred to in Article 57(1) of Directive 2009/138/EC, the supervisory authority of that insurance or reinsurance undertaking shall carry out the assessment required under those Articles in a timely manner that does not delay the application of the sale of business tool and prevent the resolution action from achieving the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 of this Directive.

6. Member States shall ensure that where the supervisory authority has not completed the assessment referred to in paragraph 5 from the date of the transfer, the following shall apply:

   (a) such a transfer of shares or other instruments of ownership to the acquirer shall have immediate legal effect;

   (b) during the assessment period and during any divestment period provided for in point (f), the acquirer’s voting rights attached to such shares or other instruments of ownership shall be suspended and vested solely in the resolution authority, which shall have no obligation to exercise any such voting rights and which shall have no liability whatsoever for exercising or refraining from exercising any such voting rights;

   (c) during the assessment period and during any divestment period provided for in point (f), the penalties and other measures for infringing the requirements for acquisitions or disposals of qualifying holdings laid down in Article 62 of

Directive 2009/138/EC shall not apply to such a transfer of shares or other instruments of ownership;

(d) promptly upon completion of its assessment, the supervisory authority shall notify the resolution authority and the acquirer in writing of whether it approves or, in accordance with Article 58(4) of Directive 2009/138/EC, opposes such a transfer of shares or other instruments of ownership to the acquirer;

(e) where the supervisory authority approves such a transfer of shares or other instruments of ownership to the acquirer, the voting rights attached to such shares or other instruments of ownership shall be deemed to be fully vested in the acquirer immediately upon receipt by the resolution authority and the acquirer of such an approval from the supervisory authority;

(f) where the supervisory authority opposes such a transfer of shares or other instruments of ownership to the acquirer:

(i) the voting rights attached to such shares or other instruments of ownership as provided for in point (b) shall remain in full force and effect;

(ii) the resolution authority may require the acquirer to divest such shares or other instruments of ownership within a divestment period determined by the resolution authority having taken into account prevailing market conditions;(iii) where the acquirer does not comply with the request provided for in point (ii), the supervisory authority, with the consent of the resolution authority, may impose on the acquirer penalties and other measures for infringing the requirements for acquisitions or disposals of qualifying holdings laid down in Article 62 of Directive 2009/138/EC.

7. For the purposes of exercising the rights to provide services or to establish itself in another Member State in accordance with Directive 2009/138/EC, the purchaser shall be considered to be a continuation of the undertaking under resolution, and may continue to exercise any such right that was exercised by the undertaking under resolution in respect of the assets, rights or liabilities transferred.

Article 32

Bridge undertaking tool

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities have the power to transfer to a bridge undertaking:

(a) shares or other instruments of ownership issued by one or more undertakings under resolution;

(b) all or any assets, rights or liabilities of one or more undertakings under resolution.

2. The bridge undertaking shall be a legal person that meets all of the following requirements:

(a) it is wholly or partially owned by one or more public authorities which may include the resolution authority or, where applicable, an insurance guarantee scheme and is controlled by the resolution authority;

(b) it is created for the purpose of receiving and holding some or all of the shares or other instruments of ownership issued by an undertaking under resolution or some or all of the assets, rights and liabilities of one or more undertakings under resolution with a view to achieve the resolution objectives and selling the undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e).

3. When applying the bridge undertaking tool, resolution authorities shall ensure that the total value of liabilities transferred to the bridge undertaking does not exceed the total value of the rights and assets transferred from the undertaking under resolution.

4. Following an application of the bridge undertaking tool, resolution authorities may, where justified by the circumstances, revert the executed transfers, and the undertaking under resolution or the original owners shall be obliged to take back any transferred assets, rights or liabilities, or shares or other instruments of ownership, where justified by the circumstances of the case, in any of the following situations:

(a) the possibility that the specific shares or other instruments of ownership, assets, rights or liabilities might be transferred back is stated expressly in the instrument by which the transfer was made;

(b) the specific shares or other instruments of ownership, assets, rights or liabilities do not fall within the classes of, or meet the conditions for transfer of shares or other instruments of ownership, assets, rights or liabilities specified in the instrument by which the transfer was made.

A transfer back as referred to in the first subparagraph may be made within any period and shall comply with any other conditions stated in the instrument by which the transfer was made.

5. Following an application of the bridge undertaking tool, resolution authorities may transfer shares or other instruments of ownership, or assets, rights or liabilities from the bridge undertaking to a third party purchaser.

6. A bridge undertaking shall be considered to be a continuation of the undertaking under resolution, and be able to continue to exercise any right that was exercised by the undertaking under resolution in respect of the assets, rights or liabilities transferred.

A bridge institution shall not conclude new insurance contracts or change existing insurance contracts in a way that could increase the insurance claims of the bridge undertaking.

7. The objectives of a bridge undertaking shall not imply any duty or responsibility to shareholders or creditors of the undertaking under resolution, and the members of the administrative, management or supervisory body or senior management shall have no liability to such shareholders or creditors for acts or omissions in the discharge of their duties, unless the act or omission implies gross negligence or serious misconduct in accordance with national law which have directly affected the rights of such shareholders or creditors.

Member States may further limit the liability of a bridge undertaking and of the members of its administrative, management or supervisory body or senior management in accordance with national law for acts and omissions in the discharge of their duties.

Article 33

Operation of a bridge undertaking

1. Member States shall ensure that the operation of a bridge undertaking respects the following requirements:

   (a) the resolution authority has approved the bridge undertaking's constitutional documents;

   (b) subject to the bridge undertaking's ownership structure, the resolution authority either appoints or approves the bridge undertaking's administrative, management or supervisory body;

   (c) the resolution authority approves the remuneration of the members of the administrative, management or supervisory body and determines their responsibilities;

   (d) the resolution authority approves the strategy and risk profile of the bridge undertaking;

   (e) the bridge undertaking is authorised in accordance with Directive 2009/138/EC and has the necessary authorisation under the applicable national law to carry out the activities or services that it acquires by virtue of a transfer made pursuant to Article 40 of this Directive;

   (f) the bridge undertaking complies with the requirements of, and is subject to supervision in accordance with Directive 2009/138/EC;

   (g) the operation of the bridge undertaking complies with the Union State aid framework and the resolution authority may specify restrictions on its operations accordingly.

   Notwithstanding the provisions referred to in points (d) and (e) of the first subparagraph and where necessary to meet the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18, a bridge undertaking may be established and authorised without complying with Directive 2009/138/EC for a short period of time at the beginning of its operation. To that end, the resolution authority shall submit a request in that sense to the supervisory authority. Where the supervisory authority decides to grant such an authorisation, it shall indicate the period for which the bridge undertaking is waived from complying with the requirements of Directive 2009/138/EC.

2. Subject to any restrictions imposed by Union or national competition rules, the management of the bridge undertaking shall operate the bridge undertaking to achieve the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 and to sell the undertaking under resolution and its assets, rights or liabilities to one or more private sector purchasers as soon as market conditions are appropriate.

3. Resolution authorities shall decide that an entity is no longer a bridge undertaking in any of the following situations, whichever occurs first:

   (a) the bridge undertaking merges with another entity;

   (b) the bridge undertaking ceases to meet the requirements of Article 32(2);

   (c) all or substantially all of the bridge undertaking's assets, rights or liabilities are sold to a third party purchaser;

(d) the bridge undertaking's assets are completely wound down and its liabilities are completely discharged.

4. Where the operations of a bridge undertaking are terminated in the situation referred to in paragraph 3, point (c), the bridge undertaking shall be wound up under normal insolvency proceedings.

Subject to Article 26(7), any proceeds generated as a result of the termination of the operation of the bridge undertaking shall benefit the shareholders of the bridge undertaking.

SECTION 4
THE WRITE-DOWN OR CONVERSION TOOL

Article 34

Objective and scope of the write-down or conversion tool

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities may apply the write-down or conversion tool to meet the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 for any of the following purposes:

(a) to recapitalise an insurance or reinsurance undertaking or an entity as referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), that meets the conditions for resolution referred to in Articles 19(1) and 20(3) to the extent sufficient to apply the solvent run-off tool referred to in Article 27 and to maintain its authorisation under Directive 2009/138/EC;

(b) to convert to equity or reduce the principal amount of claims, including insurance claims, or debt instruments that are transferred:

(i) to a bridge undertaking to provide capital for that bridge institution; or

(ii) under the asset and liability separation tool referred to in Article 30 or the sale of business tool referred to in Article 31.

When applying the write-down or conversion tool to insurance claims, resolution authorities may also restructure the terms of the related insurance contracts to achieve the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 more effectively.

2. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities determine the amount by which capital instruments, debt instruments and other eligible liabilities must be written down or converted for the purposes in paragraph 1 on the basis of the valuation carried out in accordance with Article 23.

3. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities may apply the write-down or conversion tool to all liabilities of insurance or reinsurance undertakings or entities referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), maintaining their current legal form or considering a change of their legal form where necessary.

4. Member States shall ensure that the write-down or conversion tool may be applied to all capital instruments and all liabilities of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), that are not excluded from the scope of that tool pursuant to paragraphs 5 or 6 of this Article.

5. Resolution authorities shall not apply the write-down or conversion tool in relation to the following liabilities whether they are governed by the law of a Member State or of a third country:

(a) secured liabilities;

(b) liabilities to credit institutions, investment firms and insurance or reinsurance undertakings, except for entities that are part of the same group, with an original maturity of less than seven days;

(c) liabilities with a remaining maturity of less than seven days, owed to either systems or operators of systems designated in accordance with Directive 98/26/EC or to their participants and arising from the participation in such a system, or to CCPs authorised in the Union pursuant to Article 14 of Regulation (EU) No 648/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council[32] and third-country CCPs recognised by ESMA pursuant to Article 25 of that Regulation;

(d) a liability to any one of the following:

(i) an employee, in relation to accrued salary, pension benefits or other fixed remuneration, except for the variable component of remuneration that is not regulated by a collective bargaining agreement;

(ii) a commercial or trade creditor arising from the provision to the insurance or reinsurance undertaking or entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), of goods or services that are critical to the daily functioning of its operations, including IT services, utilities and the rental, servicing and upkeep of premises;

(iii) tax and social security authorities, provided that those liabilities are preferred under the applicable law;

(iv) insurance guarantee schemes arising from contributions due in accordance with applicable national laws.

Point (a) of the first subparagraph shall not prevent resolution authorities, where appropriate, from applying the write-down or conversion tool to any part of a secured liability or a liability for which collateral has been pledged that exceeds the value of the assets, pledge, lien or collateral against which it is secured.

6. In exceptional circumstances, where the write-down or conversion tool is applied, resolution authorities may exclude or partially exclude certain liabilities from the application of the write-down or conversion tool in any of the following situations:

(a) it is not possible to write down or convert that liability within a reasonable time, notwithstanding the good faith efforts of the resolution authority;

(c) the exclusion is strictly necessary and proportionate to avoid giving rise to widespread contagion, in a manner that could cause a serious disturbance to the economy of a Member State or of the Union; or

(d) the application of the write-down or conversion tool to those liabilities would cause a destruction in value such that the losses borne by other creditors would be higher than if those liabilities were excluded from the application of the write-down or conversion tool.

Article 35

Treatment of shareholders and holders of other instruments of ownership when applying the write-down or conversion tool

1. Member States shall ensure that, when applying the write-down or conversion tool referred to in Article 34, resolution authorities take, in respect of shareholders and holders of other instruments of ownership, one or both of the following actions:

(a) cancel existing shares or other instruments of ownership, or transfer them to creditors whose claims have been converted;

(b) provided that the valuation carried out under Article 23 shows that the undertaking under resolution has a positive net value, dilute existing shareholders and holders of other instruments of ownership by converting relevant capital instruments or debt instruments issued by the undertaking under resolution, or other eligible liabilities of the undertaking under resolution ,into shares or other instruments of ownership pursuant to the application of the write-down or conversion tool.

With regard to point (b) of the first subparagraph, the conversion shall be conducted at a rate of conversion that severely dilutes existing holdings of shares or other instruments of ownership.

2. When considering which of the actions referred to in paragraph 1 to take, resolution authorities shall have regard to:

(a) the valuation carried out in accordance with Article 23;

(b) the amount by which the resolution authority has assessed that Tier 1 items must be reduced and relevant capital instruments must be written down or converted pursuant to Article 37(1).

3. By way of derogation from Articles 57 to 62 of Directive 2009/138/EC, where the conversion of capital instruments, debt instruments issued by the undertaking under resolution, or other eligible liabilities of the undertaking under resolution, would result in the acquisition of or increase in a qualifying holding in an insurance or reinsurance undertaking as referred to in Article 57(1) of Directive 2009/138/EC, supervisory authorities shall carry out the assessment required under those Articles in a timely manner that does not delay the conversion of capital instruments, or prevent resolution action from achieving the relevant resolution objectives referred to in Article 18.

4. Where the supervisory authority of the that undertaking has not completed the assessment required under paragraph 3 on the date of the conversion of the capital instruments, Article 31(6) shall apply to any acquisition of or increase in a qualifying holding by an acquirer resulting from the conversion of capital instruments.

Article 36

Rate of conversion of debt to equity

Member States shall ensure that, when resolution authorities exercise the tools specified in Article 34(1) and the powers specified in Article 40(1), point (g), they may apply a different conversion rate to different classes of capital instruments and liabilities in accordance with one or both of the following principles:

(a) the conversion rate represents appropriate compensation to the affected creditor for any loss incurred by virtue of the exercise of the write-down or conversion powers;

(b) the conversion rate applicable to liabilities that are considered to be senior under applicable insolvency law are higher than the conversion rate applicable to subordinated liabilities.

Article 37

Additional provisions governing the write-down or conversion tool

1. Resolution authorities shall apply the write-down or conversion tool in accordance with the priority of claims applicable under normal insolvency proceedings, in a way that produces the following results:

   (a) Tier 1 items are reduced first in proportion to the losses and to the extent of their capacity and the resolution authority takes one or both of the actions specified in Article 35(1) in respect of holders of Tier 1 instruments;

   (b) the principal amount of Tier 2 instruments is written down or converted into Tier 1 instruments or both, to the extent required to achieve the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 or to the extent of the capacity of the relevant capital instruments, whichever is lower;

   Where the level of write-down based on the provisional valuation as referred to in Article 25 is found to exceed requirements when assessed against the definitive valuation as referred to in Article 24(2), a write-up mechanism may be applied to reimburse creditors and, subsequently, shareholders to the extent necessary.

   When deciding on whether liabilities are to be written down or converted into equity, resolution authorities shall not convert one class of liabilities, while a class of liabilities that is subordinated to the class remains unconverted into equity or not written down.

Member States shall ensure that all claims resulting from own funds items have, in national laws governing normal insolvency proceedings, a lower priority ranking than any claim that does not result from an own funds item. For the purposes of this subparagraph, to the extent that an instrument is only partly recognised as an own funds item, the whole instrument shall be treated as a claim resulting from an own funds items and shall rank lower than any claim that does not result from an own funds item.

(c) no compensation shall be paid to any holder of the relevant capital instrument, the debt instrument or other eligible liability other than in accordance with paragraph 3.

(b) the Tier 1 instruments are issued prior to any issuance of shares or other instruments of ownership by that insurance or reinsurance undertaking or that entity referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), for the purposes of provision of own funds by the State or a government entity;

(c) the Tier 1 instruments are awarded and transferred without delay following the exercise of the conversion power;

(d) the conversion rate that determines the number of Tier 1 instruments that are provided in respect of each relevant capital instrument, debt instrument or other eligible liability complies with Article 36.

4. For the purposes of the provision of Tier 1 instruments in accordance with paragraph 3, the resolution authority may require insurance or reinsurance undertakings and entities referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), to maintain at all times the necessary prior authorisation to issue the relevant number of Tier 1 instruments.

2. Member States may also require that ultimate parent undertakings ensure that their third-country subsidiaries which are insurance and reinsurance undertakings or entities referred to in Article 1(1) points (b) to (e), include, in the financial contracts referred to in paragraph 1, terms to exclude that the exercise of the power of the resolution authority to suspend or restrict rights and obligations of the ultimate parent undertaking, in accordance with paragraph 1, constitutes a valid ground for early termination, suspension, modification, netting, exercise of set-off rights or enforcement of security interests on those contracts.

3. Paragraph 1 shall apply to any financial contract which:

   (a) creates a new obligation, or materially amends an existing obligation after the entry into force of the provisions adopted at national level to transpose this Article;

4. The fact that an insurance or reinsurance undertaking or an entity as referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), does not include in its financial contracts the contractual terms referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article shall not prevent the resolution authority from applying the powers referred to in Articles 46, 47, 48 or 49 in relation to that financial contract.

5. EIOPA shall develop draft regulatory technical standards to specify the contents of the contractual term referred to in paragraph 1, taking into account the different business models of insurance and reinsurance undertakings and entities.

2. Member States shall ensure that, where one or more resolution tools as referred to in Article 26(3) have been applied and where resolution authorities apply the write-down or conversion tool, the shareholders and creditors whose claims have been written down or converted to equity do not incur greater losses than they would have incurred if the undertaking under resolution had been wound up under normal insolvency proceedings immediately at the time when the decision referred to in Article 62 was taken.

Article 54

Valuation of difference in treatment

For the purposes of assessing whether shareholders and creditors would have received better treatment if the undertaking under resolution had entered into normal insolvency proceedings, Member States shall ensure that an independent person caries out a valuation as soon as possible after the resolution action or actions have been effected. That valuation shall be distinct from the valuation carried out under Article 23.

2. The valuation in paragraph 1 shall determine:

   (a) the treatment that shareholders and creditors, or the relevant insurance guarantee schemes, would have received if the undertaking under resolution with respect to which the resolution action or actions have been effected had entered normal insolvency proceedings at the time when the decision referred to in Article 62 was taken;

insolvency proceedings at the time when the decision referred to in Article 62 was taken;

(b) assume that the resolution action or actions had not been effected;

(c) disregard any provision of extraordinary public financial support to the undertaking under resolution.

4. Article 56

(h) a proposed decision or action shall be transparent whenever that decision or action is likely to have implications on the policy holders, real economy, financial stability, fiscal resources, and, where relevant, insurance guarantee schemes and financing arrangements of any Member State concerned.

Notwithstanding point (e), resolution authorities shall be entitled to participate in resolution college meetings whenever matters subject to joint decision-making or relating to a group entity located in their Member State are on the agenda.

5. Group resolution authorities shall not be obliged to establish a resolution college if other groups or colleges perform the same functions and carry out the same tasks specified in paragraph 1 and comply with all the conditions and procedures, including those covering membership and participation in resolution colleges, laid down in this Article and in Article 69. In such a case, all references to resolution colleges in this Directive shall be understood as references to those other groups or colleges.

3. Member States may enter into bilateral agreements with a third country regarding the matters referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 until the entry into force of an agreement referred to in paragraph 1 with the relevant third country to the extent that such bilateral agreements are not inconsistent with this Title.

Article 73

Recognition and enforcement of third-country resolution proceedings

1. This Article shall apply in respect of third-country resolution proceedings unless and until an international agreement as referred to in Article 72(1) enters into force with the third country concerned. It shall also apply following the entry into force of an international agreement as referred to in Article 72(1) with the third country concerned to the extent that recognition and enforcement of third-country resolution proceedings is not governed by that agreement.

2. The resolution authority concerned shall decide whether to recognise and enforce, except as provided for in Article 74, third-country resolution proceedings relating to a Union subsidiary or a Union branch of a third-country insurance or reinsurance undertaking or a parent undertaking.

   The decision shall give due consideration to the interests of each Member State where a third-country insurance or reinsurance undertaking or parent undertaking operates, and in particular on the other parts of the group and on the policy holders, the real economy and the financial stability in those Member States.

3. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities are, as a minimum, empowered to do the following:

   (a) exercise the resolution powers in relation to the following:

Resolution authorities may take, where necessary in the public interest, resolution action with respect to a parent undertaking where the relevant third-country authority determines that an insurance or reinsurance undertaking that is a subsidiary of that parent undertaking and that is incorporated in that third country meets the conditions for resolution under the law of that third country. To that end, Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities are empowered to use any resolution power in respect of that parent undertaking, and Article 46 shall apply.

5. The recognition and enforcement of third-country resolution proceedings shall be without prejudice to any normal insolvency proceedings under national law applicable, where appropriate, in accordance with this Directive.

Article 74

Member States shall ensure that Article 46 applies to the exercise of such powers.

2. Member States shall ensure that the powers required in paragraph 1 may be exercised by resolution authorities where the resolution authority considers that action is necessary in the public interest and one or more of the following conditions is met:

(a) the Union branch no longer meets, or is likely not to meet, the conditions imposed by national law for its authorisation and operation within that Member State and there is no prospect that any private sector, supervisory or relevant third-country action would restore the branch to compliance or prevent failure in a reasonable timeframe;

(b) the third-country insurance or reinsurance undertaking is, in the opinion of the resolution authority, unable or unwilling, or is likely to be unable, to pay its obligations to Union creditors, or obligations that have been created or booked through the branch, such as payments to policy holders or beneficiaries, as they fall due and the resolution authority is satisfied that no third-country resolution proceedings or insolvency proceedings have been or will be initiated in relation to that third-country insurance or reinsurance undertaking in a reasonable timeframe;

(c) the relevant third-country authority has initiated third-country resolution proceedings in relation to the third-country insurance or reinsurance undertaking, or has notified to the resolution authority its intention to initiate such a proceeding.

3. Where a resolution authority takes an independent action in relation to a Union branch, it shall have regard to the resolution objectives referred to in Article 18 and take the action in accordance with the following principles and requirements, insofar as they are relevant:

(b) the information is necessary for the performance by the relevant third-country authorities of their resolution functions under national law that are comparable to those under this Directive and, subject to point (a), is not used for any other purposes.

For the purposes of point (a), in so far as the exchange of information relates to personal data, the handling and transmission of such personal data to third-country authorities shall be governed by the applicable Union and national data protection law.

2. Where confidential information originates in another Member State, resolution authorities, supervisory authorities and competent ministries shall not disclose that information to relevant third-country authorities unless the following conditions are met:

(a) the relevant authority of the Member State where the information originated (the originating authority) agrees to that disclosure;

(b) the information is disclosed only for the purposes permitted by the originating authority.

TITLE VI
PENALTIES

Article 78

Administrative penalties and other administrative measures

1. Without prejudice to the powers of resolution and supervisory authorities laid down in this Directive and Directive 2009/138/EC and the right of Member States to provide for and impose criminal penalties referred to in the second subparagraph, Member States shall lay down rules on administrative penalties and other administrative measures applicable where the national provisions transposing this Directive have not been complied with, and shall take all measures necessary to ensure that they are implemented.

   Member States that decide not to lay down rules for administrative penalties or other administrative measures for infringements which are subject to national criminal law shall communicate to the Commission the criminal law provisions concerned.

   The administrative penalties and other administrative measures shall be effective, proportionate and dissuasive.

2. 3. The powers to impose administrative penalties and other administrative measures provided for in this Directive shall be attributed to resolution authorities or to supervisory authorities, depending on the type of infringement. Resolution authorities and supervisory authorities shall have all information-gathering and investigatory powers that are necessary for the exercise of their respective functions. In the exercise of their powers to impose administrative penalties or other administrative measures, resolution authorities and supervisory authorities shall cooperate closely to ensure that administrative penalties or other administrative measures produce the desired results and coordinate their action when dealing with cross-border cases.

4. Resolution authorities and supervisory authorities shall exercise their administrative powers to impose penalties and other administrative measures in accordance with this Directive and national law in any of the following ways:

   (a) directly;

   (b) in collaboration with other authorities;

   (c) under their responsibility by delegation to other authorities;

   (d) by application to the competent judicial authorities.

5. Member States shall ensure that decisions taken by the resolution authorities and supervisory authorities in accordance with this Title are subject to a right of appeal.

Article 79

Specific provisions on administrative penalties and other administrative measures

1. Member States shall ensure that their laws, regulations and administrative provisions provide for administrative penalties and other administrative measures at least in respect of the following situations:

   (a) an infringement of Articles 5 or 7 by failing to draw up, maintain and update pre-emptive recovery plans and group pre-emptive recovery plans;

   (b) an infringement of Article 12 by failing to provide all the information necessary for the development of resolution plans;

   (c) an infringement of Article 61(1) by the failure of the administrative, management or supervisory body of an insurance or reinsurance undertaking or an entity as referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), to notify the supervisory authority when that undertaking or that entity is failing or likely to fail.

2. Member States shall ensure that, in the cases referred to in paragraph 1, the administrative penalties and other administrative measures that can be applied include at least the following:

   (a) a public statement indicating the natural person, insurance or reinsurance undertaking, the entity as referred to in Article 1(1), points (b) to (e), an ultimate parent undertaking or other legal person responsible for the infringement and the nature of the infringement;

   (f) administrative fines of up to twice the amount of the benefit derived from the infringement where that benefit can be determined.

   For the purposes of point (d), where the legal person is a subsidiary of a parent undertaking, the relevant turnover shall be the total annual turnover resulting from the consolidated accounts of the ultimate parent undertaking in the preceding business year.

Article 80

Publication of administrative penalties and other administrative measures

1. Member States shall ensure that resolution authorities and supervisory authorities publish on their official website at least any administrative penalties and other administrative measures imposed by those authorities for infringing the national provisions transposing this Directive where such administrative penalties or other administrative measures have not been the subject of an appeal or where the right of appeal has been exhausted. Such publication shall be made without undue delay after the natural or legal person is informed of that administrative penalty or other administrative measure. The publication shall contain information on the type and nature of the infringement and the identity of the natural or legal person on whom the administrative penalty or other administrative measure is imposed.

   Where Member States permit publication of administrative penalties and other administrative measures against which there is an appeal, resolution authorities and supervisory authorities shall, without undue delay, publish on their official websites information on the status of that appeal and the outcome thereof.

2. Where the resolution authority or supervisory authority considers that the publication of the identity of the legal persons, or identity or personal data of natural persons would be disproportionate following a case-by-case assessment conducted on the proportionality of the publication of such data, or where such a publication would jeopardise the stability of financial markets or an ongoing investigation, the resolution authority or supervisory authority shall do any of the following:

   (a) defer the publication of the decision imposing the administrative penalty or other administrative measures until the reasons for that deferral cease to exist;

   (b) publish the decision imposing the administrative penalty or other administrative measures on an anonymous basis in accordance with national law where such anonymous publication would ensure the effective protection of the personal data concerned;

   (c) not publish the decision imposing the administrative penalty or other administrative measures where the resolution authority or supervisory authority is of the opinion that publication in accordance with point (a) or (b) would be insufficient to ensure either of the following:

      (i) that the stability of financial markets is not jeopardised;

      (ii) the proportionality of the publication of such data with regard to measures which are deemed to be of a minor nature.

   Resolution authorities and supervisory authorities shall ensure that any publication in accordance with this Article shall remain on their official website for a period of at least five years after its publication. Personal data contained in the publication shall only be kept on the official website of the resolution authority or the supervisory authority for the period which is necessary according to applicable data protection rules.

Article 81

Maintenance of central database by EIOPA

1. Subject to the professional secrecy requirements referred to in Article 64, resolution authorities and supervisory authorities shall inform EIOPA of all administrative penalties and other administrative measures imposed by them under Article 79 and of the status of that appeal and outcome thereof.

   EIOPA shall maintain and keep updated a central database of penalties and other administrative measures reported to it by resolution authorities, solely to enable those resolution authorities to exchange information, which shall be accessible to those resolution authorities only.
